Redwood Canyon Crusher Is Ok'd

School Week Open Houses Set at Orinda Schools

As a part of the celebration of National School Week Monday through Friday, four of Orinda's five schools have scheduled open houses in order that parents may become better acquainted with their children's activities.

Open houses are scheduled at Del Rey, Glorietta, Orinda and Pine Grove schools. According to Joseph L. Sheaff, district superintendent, open house at Sleepy Hollow School will be postponed until some time next month because of parking conditions and current consrtuction.

At all of the schools parents will have the opportunity to visit their children's classrooms, see schoolwork and special displays, tour the building, and meet school personnel.

Del Rey School's open house will be on Monday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Principal Herman Nyland Jr., said that in addition to displays of classroom and individual work an informal instrumental music program will be staged in the band room by District Music Teacher Charles Pendleton.

Open house at Glorietta School will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday. Principal Margaret Anderson said all parents are invited to visit the classrooms and view art exhibits and folders of papers compiled by each child to show work done during the year.

Also, Mrs. Anderson said, there will be a display in the school auditorium of text books and materials used in the school. There will also be displays depicting the library program, music activities, nature and science.

Girl Scouts will serve Cokes and 7 UP at the open house at Glorietta.

Open house at Orinda School will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday and principal William Gaskell said that all parents will be taken to their child's classroom in order that htey may become acquainted with teachers and the children's work. They will also have an opportunity to tour the building, visit other classrooms and see a display of work in the hall, Gaskell said.

Pine Grove School's open house is scheduled from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday. Principal Ted Boyce stated that all the classrooms will be open and that schol work from this year will be on display.

"There will also be special activity and art displays," Boyce said. "All parents are cordially invited to be our guests for the evening."

Mothers Vote 254-45 For Individual Clubs

Parents of children in four Orinda schools met this week for organizational sessions on forming as individual school parents clubs.

During the sessions, officers for the newly-formed individual club were elected. The names of the officers will appear in next week's Orinda Sun. Also, the paper will carry details of a similar organizational meeting scheduled at the remaining school, Pine Grove, next Tuesday.

The meeting will be at 10 a.m. in the school library and all Pine Grove parents are invited to attend.

Next Tuesday's meeting at Pine Grove and the meetings this week at the other four schools came after the general membership of the Orinda Mothers Club was polled to determine if members favored individual parents clubs over the present Mothers Club.

Results of the poll were 254 mothers voting for separate parents clubs and 45 mothers voting to retain the Mothers Club as it now is. Results of the poll were revealed at the April 8 board meeting of the Mothers Club.

Mrs. James Irwin, president of the Mothers Club, said this week concerning the voting, "The Mothers Club board feels strongly that parent participation at the individual school level will strengthen the organization as a whole. Also, a Parents Club cooperative council will continue the work of cooperation and coordination that has been carried on by the Mothers Club board."

Also, Mrs. Irwin explained, "Using the name Parents Club rather than Mothers Club invites many interested fathers in the community to participate in school affairs."

School Week, Parents Club Meeting Linked

The Miramonte Parents Club will hold their regular monhtly meeting on April 21 in cooperation with Public School Week.

According to president, Robert Pridemore, there will be a short business meeting starting at 8 o'clock.

A report from the nominating committee will be given and election of officers will follow. The meeting will then be adjourned and parents will be welcome to visit all departments of the school, where there will be demonstrations going on in many of these.

James Lewis, principal, states there will also be a student musical program running simultaneously in the gymnasium. Parents may go in and out as they wish, thus avoiding being detained in any particular department or failing to visit those of special interest.

Coffee and refreshments will be served at 9:30 to conclude the evening program.

There are still tickets available for the Miramonte Bridge Dessert, "Tea House of the April Moon" to be held on Thursday at 1 o'clock. They may be obtained by calling Mrs. Coleman Huntley, CL 41531.

Orinda Assn's 1958 Membership Drive Nears End

District captains and corps of workers are now busy working toward the Monday deadline to wrap up the Orinda Association's 1958 membership drive, according to Art Flint, Association president.

Flint explained that this year the Association latered the dates of the annual membership drive. Previously, he said, the drive had been staged in November and December. This year's drive began in March and will end Monday.

Flint said: "We are soliciting membership by stressing our function as Martinez lobbyists, our watchfulness over zoning and land use, our responsibility to the community as trustees for 10½ acres of community property, and our concern with the development of land for recreation and community use.

Zone captains for the drive are Kenneth B. Anderson, Art Pederson, Harold Haver, Mrs. Lois Denning, Fred Twining, Alfred Young, W. N. Porter, Leland Atkins, Mrs. Millie Silva, Fred Brown, J. P. Hubner, George Driscoll, D. C. Young, W. W. Harnish, Mrs. R. B. Thrailkill, Doug Manuel and George Duke.

$15,000 Fire, Casa Orinda Owner States

A fire caused by defective wiring at the Casa Orinda Sunday evening resulted in between $12,000 and $15,000 damage, co-owner Jack Snow told The Sun Thursday.

Snow stated that extensive repairs and remodeling are now underway and that the Casa has resumed serving dinners as well as luncheons. However, he said, it will be at least another week before remodeling and repairs are complete in the front kitchen and main dining room.

The fire broke out at about 9 p.m. Sunday, he said, in the ceiling over the charcoal broiler and was at first believed to have been caused by a faulty broiler flue.

Subsequent inspection, however, revealed that the fire was caused because wiring had been laid next in contact with a flue pipe. Heat from the pipe, Snow said, had burned insulation off the wiring. and sparks then set the blaze which was quenched by Orinda firefighters.

The blaze broke out in the floor liquor room where between 40 and 45 cases of liquor broke or exploded.

Damage on the second floor was extensive from the fire proper, Snow explained, while first floor damage resulted from smoke and water.

Total cost of replacing damaged food and liquor, and for the rebuilding and remodeling, will probably run about $15,000, Snow said.

The building is insured.

On May 10, the Diablo Valley Chorale will present its annual program in the Stanley School Auditorium.

County School Board Candidates to Speak

Residents of the Lafayette-Moraga-Orinda area will have a chance to meet candidates for County Superintendent of Schools May 14 at 8 p.m.

At that time, the five candidates for the post will speak at a school candidates night jointly sponsored by the Walnut Creek Branch of the American Association of University Women and The Sun.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at Walnut Creek School, 2425 Walnut Boulevard, Walnut Creek.

A question and answer period will follow the presentations.

Although there will be other candidates on the program, the County candidates will appear first so that those who wish may leave after the part of the program which concerns them has ended.

Each candidate will have seven minutes to present his program. Timing will be strictly observed by a member of the Mt. Diablo Toastmasters Club, who will be present with bell, buzzer and lights to insure that no candidate overstays his alloted time at the microphone.

The meeting will be opened by Mrs. James Buckley, president of the Walnut Creek Branch of the AAUW, who will present Herman Silverman, Sun publisher. He will introduce Mrs. Margaret Price who will moderate the program.

Seating capacity at the Walnut Creek School multi-use room is nearly 500 people, so there will be room for all.

Why not reserve the evening and meet the county school post candidates. It will be a good opportunity to make up your mind on the men and the issues before the election.

Moraga Plan Decision Due On Tuesday

The County Planning Commission meets this evening with its planning staff to discuss major items in the Moraga Master Plan, prior to a final decision on the plan which will be forthcoming on Tuesday.

Main items under discussion will be the oft-argued points of whether or not there should be a shopping center in the Burton area of Lafayette and whether additional controlled manufacturing space should be allocated in the Orinda area.

Cast in the role of "the villain" in the minds of many residents is Utah Manufacturing Company, which owns much of the land in the 9,500 acres under consideration in the Master Plan.

Utah, over vigorous protests of many Lafayette homeowners and improvement groups, is seeking to have a nine-acre area in the Burton vicinity planned for a proposed shopping center.

Utah is also seeking an increase in the controlled manufacturing area in Orinda.

Karplus Seeks Board Post

Robert Karplus, physicist and Orinda civic leader of 57 Overhil Road, this week declared his candidacy for the Orinda School Board of Trustees in the coming elementary district election, May 20.

Karplus this year was selected Orinda's "Outstanding Young Man of 1957" by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A member of the Orinda Association Civic Affairs Committe. Karplus is also a director of Orindans, Inc., a homeowners' improvement organization in his neighborhood.

In announcing his candidacy for the School Board, Karplus, a physics professor at the University of California, stated, "My work with the students and teachers at the University and my relationship with my own growing family have made me particularly aware of the vital role played by public education in our society. A large measure of the responsibility for the success of this educational enterprise rests on the citizens of each school district.

"The trustees and the school administration must furnish the leadership in school planning, educational standards, and curriculum development that will enable the community to realize the full potentialities of its young people. At the same time, the trustees must be sensitive to the resources of the community and to the rate at which educational progress can be achieved. I believe that with my background, and interests, I can contribute effectively to Orinda's school program."

Karplus's training as a scientist took place at Harvard, where he received his A.B. and Ph.D. degrees. In addition to his teaching and research duties his activities include administering government research contracts, and serving on the governing committees of the University faculty.

Karplus, his wife, Betty, and their five children live in the home they built several years ago on Overhill Road. Beverly and Peggy Karplus, are students at Glorietta School. Richard, Barbara, and Andy are not yet school age. Mrs. Karplus has also been active in Orinda affairs, and at present is serving on the community resources committee of the local branch of the A.A.U.W.

Nothin' But Blue Skies...

The weatherman made up for his recent rage this week by giving Orindans their first real taste of spring and summer weather.

Not a drop of rain marred the week's weather. Skies were blue and clear and temperatures during the days ran in the high 70s—inspiring many to abandon more mundane tasks in favor of a round of golf or a look at the Giants in action.

Greyhound Gets New Hearing On Local Routes

The Public Service Commission this week granted a rehearsal sion granted a rehearing to Western Greyhound Lines in the proceeding which authorized Greyhound to abandon its local routes and for Eastshore Lines to assume operation of the routes.

In a February 18 decision, the PUC authorized Eastshore Lines to operate buses from Lafayette to Berkeley and at the same time permitted Western Greyhound to suspend service over the route from Berkeley to the junction of Tunnel Road and the freeway at Lake Temescal.

The change in operation was to take place within 80 days from the date of the PUC decision.

Under the terms of the authorization, Greyhound is bound to resume service over the route if at any time within the next five years Eastshore should abandon service

In the request for rehearing, Greyhound is protesting this provision, stating that it is "unlawful and erroneous" in that it "does not provide an incentive for efficient and economical service to the public" by Eastshore Lines.

Greyhound contends that "Eastshore has little incentive in the interest of public service since they have the option to try it out and are free to terminate it at any time, since Greyhound would be forced to resume service.

Greyhound states that the decision results in "unfairness and prejudice to Greyhound" because Greyhound would have no means of knowing when it would be expected to resume the Lafayette-Berkeley run.

Also, Greyhound feels, if they were called upon to resume service on the line they could expect to do so under deteriorate traffic conditions. "Otherwise Eastshore wouldn't abandon the route," a Greyhound spokesman commented.

In the request for rehearing, Greyhound stated, "The California constitution and the Public Utilities Commission code give the commission no power of authority to order condtiional suspension under the conditions involved" in the PUC's February 18 ruling.

Tenor Crain Will Appear At Las Lomas

The name "Jon Crain, tenor" who will appear as a concert artist for the Acalanes Community Concerts Association at the Las Lomas High School on Wednesday night, April 25 at 8:15, carries a special significance.

For those new members who are hearing him it means that they will also hear Lily Pons in that same auditorium on Nov. 6.

The Jon Crain concert is given as a special bonus to those individuals who want to purchase a membership for the 1958-1959 season, called "The Lily Pons Season." Memberships are $6 for adults and $3 for students and will be available at the door on the night of the Crain Concert, April 23.

Memberships entitle the holder to the Lily Pons concert, possibly the San Francisco Ballet, and two other concerts to be held at the Las Lomas auditorium during next season.

The association which has been in this community for 12 years is able to make this offer because of the added seating they have available in the Las Lomas auditorium. Only 2000 seats are available there.

Crain, whose concert is offered as a bonus, made his debut with the San Francisco Opera Company, and has since starred with both the Chicago Opera Company and the New York City Opera Company. He has frequently appeared on radio and television and in New York's Carnegie Hall. He is noted for his dramatic voice and acting ability.

Jon Crain is an American, born in St. Louis, who as a member of special services in the army during World War II toured the army camps stirring huge audiences with his voice.

Fences Waived

The county board of adjustment recently approved applications for exceptions to swimming pool fencing requirements for Sheldon Allen, Haciendas Road, Orinda and Douglas Kilborn, Los Arabis Drive, Lafayette.

Orinda Association Votes To Transfer Library Land

The Orinda Association Board of Directors voted Monday to offer to deed the library property to the Library Board and to subsequently work with the Library Board in investigating means of deeding the property to the county.

The board action followed discussion at last month's board meeting when directors discussed the possibility of removing the property from the tax rolls by deeding it to a governmental agency.

The association last month approved a contract with the Library Board in which the association is leasing the land to the Library Board at a token yearly rate. However, the Orinda Association is currently bound to pay all taxes on the property.

In other business, the board, which normally meets the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, voted to meet only once a month temporarily beginning in May. Beginning next month, the board will meet only on the fourth Tuesday of each month.

Following a report from the Redwood Canyon Committee on the pending application of A. J. McCosker to operate a rock crusher at his quarry, the board voted to send representatives to county hearings on the matter.

The County Planning Commission met Tuesday night on the rock crusher application and the Board of Supervisors is to meet on the application on the coming Tuesday.

Regarding the Association's request for a recreation survey from the state, Association Property Committee Chairman Fred Twining reported that the state had replied that it would probably be at least two years before Orinda's recreation needs could be surveyed.

Twining said that the State Recreation Department, because of prior commitments for similar surveys in other communities, would not be able to survey Orinda's recreation needs until that time.

Bruce Howard was named to head a committee to investigate teen-age recreation needs in Orinda and adjacent areas.

'DA is Not Available' Nejedly Tells Audience

"The incumbent district attorney simply is not available to the people at any time," John Nejedly, Walnut Creek city attorney and candidate for Contra Costa County district attorney, told supporters Wednesday night at a dinner given in his honor.

Nejedly said he referred to District Attorney Francis Collins' private practice, which he said keeps Collins so busy he does not have time to properly perform his official duties.

Nejedly continued, "There is nothing personal in my campaign.

MR. COLLINS might make a good district attorney, or he might make a good lawyer with a private practice—but he can't be both, and is not both."

Nejedly added, "The present district attorney has yet to try his first case on behalf of the county in the courts."

Nejedly referred to criticism of Collins made by Governor Goodwin Knight when it was proposed that Collins' salary be raised. Knight said that he could not justify a pay raise because Collins devotes too much time to private practice.

Knight called Collins a "glaring example" of a person in public service who spends too much time on outside interests.

NEJEDLY SAID that any person can retain a member of the district attorney's staff for a private case, and later he may appear before this same staff charged with a criminal act. This becomes a clear conflict of interest on the part of the district attorney's staff members, Nejedly said.

He also reminded the audience that this is the first time in 25 years that there has been a contest for the position of district attorney. Collins was appointed to the job in 1945.

A large crowd of about 400 persons heard Nejedly's statements, delivered at the Diablo Country Club.

City officials from Antioch, Pittsburg, Walnut Creek, Martinez and other areas attended.

MASTER OF ceremonies Art Evans introduced Nejedly, and told of the candidate's background.

Nejedly has promised the voters that if elected, he will serve as district attorney on a full-time basis.

He has been city attorney of Walnut Creek for 10 years, is legal counsel for the Central Contra Costa Sanitary District, general council for the California Sanitary District Association and is an instructor in public administrative law at the University of California.

During World War II, he was Japanese language officer with the Army Air Corps' Air Technical Intelligence.

Orinda Theatre Manager Beaten

Two zipper-jacketed men, both about 30, walked into the office of Orinda Theater manager Edward Turk, 42, Sunday night, pummeled Turk, ran out of the theater, and fled in a sports car.

Turk told Sheriff's officials that he was sitting in his office when the men entered. One inquired about the whereabouts of his daughter, whom he said had attended the theater, 16 Moraga Highway, earlier in the day.

Turk said when he replied that he knew nothing of the girl the man suddenly started beating him with his fists.

Turk shouted for help and the pair ran out through the lobby and fled in the sports car.

Cub Newspaper Drive Saturday

On Saturday morning Cub Scouts from Pack 212 will stage a paper drive in the Orinda area to meet the pack's operating expenses.

Prior to the day of the drive, Cubs canvassed the area to route Saturday's pickups. Persons donating papers are asked to tie papers into bundles. However, on request, Cubs will visit homes Saturday to aid in the tying and will also furnish cord.

Residents are asked to donate only newspapers, no magazines.

Candidates Expected to Talk Straight on May 28

Who's running for what office, and why are they running?

What have they got to say for themselves, and how is a voter to make an intelligent decision among the multitude of candidates and the confusion of offices?

All these questions, and many, many more—all you can ask, in fact, will be answered May 28 at Acalanes High School when the traditional Sun Candidate's Night is held.

THE EVENING WILL get underway at 8 p.m., and there will be a long list of candidates waiting their turn to speak their piece and be questioned by a hoard of eager voters.

Offices represented will include Supervisor, Third District; Walnut Creek Judicial District; Superior Court Judge; Congress, Assembly, Sheriff, District Attorney, and many others.

Seats will be available for more than 500 persons, plus bleacher facilities, so all who attend will have seating where they can both see and hear.

There will be a timekeeper, provided by the Mt. Diablo Toastmasters' Club, who will be equipped with a loud buzzer to insure that no candidate exceeds his alloted time at the microphone.

WHY NOT PLAN to make it a family affair? The evening will provide a good opportunity for the youngsters to see our democratic and governmental processes in action.

And it will be an equally fine opportunity for adult members of the family to acquaint themselves with issues at state in order to vote more intelligently on election day.

It is expected that the discussions and speeches will last from about 8 p.m. until 10:45 p.m.

Keep your eyes on The Sun for further details. Information will appear periodically until the traditional Sun Candidates' Night at Acalanes High School, Wednesday, May 28.

County Planners Recommend OK Over Objections

Over the objections of a half-dozen organizations, the Contra Costa County Planning Commission this week approved the application of A. J. McCosker for the operation of rock crusher in Redwood Canyon.

The action came at Tuesday night's Planning Commission session when commissioners met to consider McCosker's re-application for the rock crusher permit.

The Planning Commission's decision goes before the County Board of Supervisors Tuesday night.

The Planning Commission's OK on the rock crusher application was made over objection from the Contra Costa Park and Recreation Council, the Canyon Community Club, the Walnut Creek and Orinda Garden Clubs, the Park Commission and East Bay Municipal Utility District.

MAIN BONE OF contention of most of the protesting organizations was the increase use of Redwood Canyon's Pinehurst Road if the rock crusher gets the go-sign from the supervisors.

Remonstrators argued that large trucks would use the road if the rock crusher permit is granted. Increased use of the road would decrease the road's safety factor, they asserted, and would result in costs to the county for road improvement. The objectors also said improving and staightening the road would modify the road's "park" nature.

E.B.M.U.D. spokesmen said they were objecting because the rock-crusher agreement did not contain certain provisions—for the prevention of erosion and silting—agreed upon previously in conferences with the county.

McCOSKER WAS originally granted a permit to quarry in Redwood Canyon in December, 1956 when the supervisors voted 3-2 for the permit following strong public opposition to the proposal.

He lost the rock crushing part of his permit last summer in a lawsuit when it was determined that he did not have the installation of the crusher completed in the required six months.

News that McCosker was reapplying for the rock crusher permit was met with some immediate opposition last week, primarily from the Contra Costa Park and Recreation Council.

By Tuesday night's meeting, several more organizations had joined in the protest and about 10 persons turned up at the Planning Commission hearing to remonstrate on the application.

In granting the approval to McCosker, the Planning Commission noted that they were doing so on technical grounds, since they had already once granted permission to the same man to engage in the same operation.

After the district attorney's office commented on E. B.-M. U. D.'s statement that there had been an omission in the proposal, the county planners recommended to the supervisors that the stipulated provisions be included in the crusher permit.

Many organizations, protesting possible alterations in Pinehurst Road if the crusher is allowed, urged denial of the permit until the Shepherd Canyon Freeway is built.

Orinda Church Expansion OK'd

The County Board of Adjustment has granted a land use permit to the Orinda Community Church, Irwin Way, to allow it to enlarge and modify the existing structure and accessory buildings.

The church, just east of Camino Pablo, will be able to expand through a land-trade agreement with the Orinda Association. In the trade, the church acquires association property in exchange for land at the northwest quadrant of Orinda interchange.

Howard is Chairman of EBMUD Push

Charles P. Howard, Alameda and Contra Costa County civic leader, has been named general chairman of the Citizens Committee for Water Development, sponsors of the $252 million EBMUD water issue on the June ballot.

Cited the imperative role of water rights to the Eastbay's present and future economy, Howard emphasized that passage of the bond issue would prevent any increase in taxes or water rates. This has been conformed by exhaustive engineering and financial studies made by outside authorities, Howard said.

Population estimates for the Easy Bay area show that the present water supply and facilities will have reached their capacity within the next 10 years. To meet this growth EBMUD has already acquired additional water rights. It has also designed a contruction project which must be started immediately to make water available to homeowners and industry when needed in 1967. This will include two new dams, a third acqueduct and a wide variety of other facilities, Howard pointed out.

Also named to the executive board of the Citizens Committee for Water Development were: Kendric B. Morrish and Norris Nash, vice-chairmen; Elvyn C. Evers, finance chairman; K. Leroy Hamman, public information chairman; Thad McCarty, speakers bureau chairman; and William H. Jamison and Charles Metcalf, endorsement chairmen.

Community chairmen named by Howard include: ORINDA- Ralph Hall, D. Ramsay Underwood; LAFAYETTE- William B. Freeman, Edward M. Rowland; WALNUT CREEK- Bruce Copeland and John Nejedly.

Suburbia Scribblings

By MARIE MONAHAN

HOW DO WE KNOW IT'S SPRING? We brushed the first ladybug from our sleeve today. And those silly Siamese bugs are swarming again! We caught a big Black Beetle, saved it all day in a jar, only to have the children chortle—"Oh, Mother! THAT'S a Stinkbug!" and WE tho't we'd unearthed a rare specimen. We swatted the first fly of the season, chased a moth around the room and wondered how tiny caterpillars could create such a rustle in the trees outside at night. We saw a family of quail, Bumper-to-bumper fashion, slowing up traffic as they crossed Moraga Hwy. AND the voice of our our new pet, a Peruvian Cavy (inherited from the Usingers) can be heard throughout the house. At 1 o'clock in the morning!

HOW DO YOU KNOW IT'S SPRING? The poison oak's shiny & sneaky & stealing stealthily over on YOUR property. The lupines (we used to call them Old Maid's Bonnets) look like mauve-grey ghosts studding the slopes. But Sparsely, compared to the riotous lavender display of days gone by . . . Just Between Us Natives, do you remember the Berkeley hills ablaze w/California Poppies, the color of fire? And the endless fields of purple lupine that meant spring in the cities on the other side of the tunnel? No more lupine . . . No more fields!

And the tax collector . . .

How do you know it's Spring. . .? Your picnic-planning & garden tanning, but Income-Taxing was not NOT relaxing! It's time for Baseball fever and we saw young John Meyer wearing a GIANTS baseball shirt the day of THE GAME. It's time for Fishing & Fooling & Swimming-pooling. Evening walks . . . and family talks. AND NO MORE long evenings holed up inside in front of TV. Stir up a tall one, dear, & take your twilight & star-gazing from the terrace in Vistavision.

IT'S SPRING ALRIGHT! The children bursting w/pent-up energy, appear on the scene looking like, is it apoplexy? No, the sudden SUN! Just rosy cheeks—and do you detect the first sign of a sunburn? It's Bathing Suits to buy & last yr's cottons to look over & warm winter clothes, you're THROUGH! Off you go w/the Mothballs! Or the Rummage!

We know it's Spring . . . because we couldn't bear the foggy windows any longer . . . rolled up our sleeves & didn't stop, No Sir, till every last one of 'em was sparkling clear. Ever try just vinegar & water? And DRY w/newspapers? We know it's Spring because we saw a mother & her moppet in match-mate red bandana blouses hot off the sewing machine. And many of our grey flannel suiters home EARLY doing the family shopping & buying Bock Beer in their bermudas & bare feet.

IT MUST BE SPRING . . . because the brooms were in brisk action afront the new Heaven To Eleven Shop t'other morn. And the sidewalk was getting a good old-fashioned sweeping by two determined ladies w/THAT LOOK in their eyes!

THE NURSERIES ARE ATTRACTING — like a magnet, mesmerizing . . . and the flats of favorite flowers are HARD to resist when it's so easy to take home a few as you pass the Five & Dime. We KNOW it's Spring because we finally took 3 prs. of muddy keds OUT of the wicker fernery and put IN some Chinese primroses. Finally!

LITTLE BOYS ARE SELLING snakes and catching pocketfuls of frogs & polliwogs. And MEASLES! And little girls are selling pink lemonade at homemade stands and looking at little boys and giggling and getting NEW dresses & new jumpropes. And MEASLES!

The barbecue cloth needs replacing (sometihng WILD this year) and the deck chairs are due for a fresh coat of flat. We know it's Spring because Everybody everywhere is humming or whistling or singing, striding or strutting and GLAD to be doing it. Nothing's a Chore, nothing's a Bore. It's a New Lease on Life and we LOVE IT!

Net losses, net gains a love match

Orinda loses some of its favorite people . . . Gene & June Estes (he's former Assoc. pres.) fly off to Iran Apr. 23 . . . and while you wish them well, you can tell them a little Stork bird told you they're expecting a third addition in October. Good things come in bunches . . . AND bundles!

Another loss will be Bill & Jean Thurston who w/their Tom, John & Carol will soon move to make their home in the Southland. Bill leaves May 21 and Jean will stay on so the youngsters can finish out the school term. Active in many community doings and a former Chrm. Civic Affairs, Bill has served us well and the pair leave many good friends. Jean's "girl friends" will miss her thoughtfulness & graciousness and Well, fevvinskaes! Don't cry! They haven't left YET!

Orinda Pair Protest War Spending; Won't Pay Taxes

Last weekend, while many johnny-come-latelies were pouring over fine print, adding up W-2 forms, and filling out 1040s and 1040-As, one Orinda couple was also pondering their income tax problems.

However, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Barns resolved their problem in a somewhat different manner.

They simply refused to pay the balance on their taxes.

Barns, chief draftsman for Berkeley Pump Company, stated in a leter to the Internal Revenue Service:

"For some years we have been greatly concerned and disturbed about the uses to which our money is being put, and a check of our records will show that several times in the past we have filed but protested this useage. This year, for the first time, we have had control over part of our income in that it has come from sources not subject to withholding, and thus for the first time we are going to be able to make more than just a verbal protest. We will not voluntarily pay the balance that the return shows is due."

THE BARNSES CONCLUDED, "We do wish to make clear as possible that we are not evading taxes. We are deliberately and with a great deal of previous thought disobeying the law as it is now written. We can no longer simply acquiesce to the gross injustices which the government of the United States is committing in the fields of international relations and war preparations."

In the letter to the Internal Revenue Service, the Barnses set forth their reasons for refusing to remit approximately $2.93 which they still owe on their year's income. Another letter was addressed to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and others were sent to Congressional representatives.

IN THE LETTER to the president, the Barnses stated, "We plead that every effort be made on your part that we as a nation . . .

"1. Stop preparing for war.

"2. Show our good faith and our concern for others by stopping nuclear testing.

"3. Increase our foreign aid not in military supplies but in fundamentally useful commodities.

"4. Spend as much money developing and strengthening the United Nations as we now spend on war preparation.

"5. Negotiate seriously and unendingly for peaceful methods of meeting the world's problems."

The couple told President Eisenhower that they feel it regretful that ". . . we spend billions of dollars and more billions of man-hours preparing for war to destroy the peoples of the world and our own self-value."

ALSO IN THEIR LETTER to the president, the couple stated: "We can not bring ourselves to voluntarily pay for war preparations which crowd out the very hope of developing peace and which mean total destruction of ourselves and others.

"It is quite as important that the preparation for war destroys our ability to develop our democracy and maintain a climate in which we as individuals may develop creatively contributions that this preparation puts us in the dishonorable position from which we are able to destroy all the world which is not in our 'war camp' and even without the assurance that the end result would not be that we ourselves would be physically destroyed as well."

IN THE LETTER to the Internal Revenue Service, San Francisco, the couple explained. "We recognize that teh Internal Revenue Service is not a policy-making body, but a service arm of the government. We are, therefore, not trying to change your policies, for we recognize that these are set by others."

The Barses explained that their total U. S. tax bill for the year is approximately $729.12. Of this, withholding tax has already taken $436.40.

"We are not enclosing a check for the balance of $292.72," the pair stated.

Strange Actions Danger Tipoff

With the recurrence of a rabies outbreak in the county, Dr. Elvira Goettsch, assistant county health officer, had warned that all county residents should be alert to unusual behavior in any animal whether wild or domestic.

If a pet displays a marked change in temperament or habits or becomes ill it should be confined and a veterinarian contacted.

Wild animals that get friendly should olso be suspect. Family members should be careful in handling such animals to protect themselves against being bitten.

This disease had been identified in two skunks in the Mt. Diablo area. No human beings were bitten or in intimate contact with the animals. At the present time there is no effective county-wide rabies control program, Dr. Goettsch said.

One of the most important business functions of the year will be staged Tuesday evening at 6:30 at the Casa Orinda, according to Al Baer, chairman of the Orinda Chamber of Commerce merchants committee.

At that time, merchants and businessmen will chart plans for the next 12 months' sales promotion program.

All business people, whether members of the Chamber or not, are invited to participate in the "brainstorming" session, Baer said.

"We urge all Orinda business people to attend this very important meeting Tuesday," Baer said. "We are now making plans on how to stimulate business in Orinda during the coming 12 months and we earnestly solicit your ideas and suggestions."

"Too often," he said. "some of our business people fail to attend meetings of this sort and don't present suggestions. Then, after the year's program is formulated they criticize it. This meeting will afford the opportunity to everyone's suggestions to be heard."

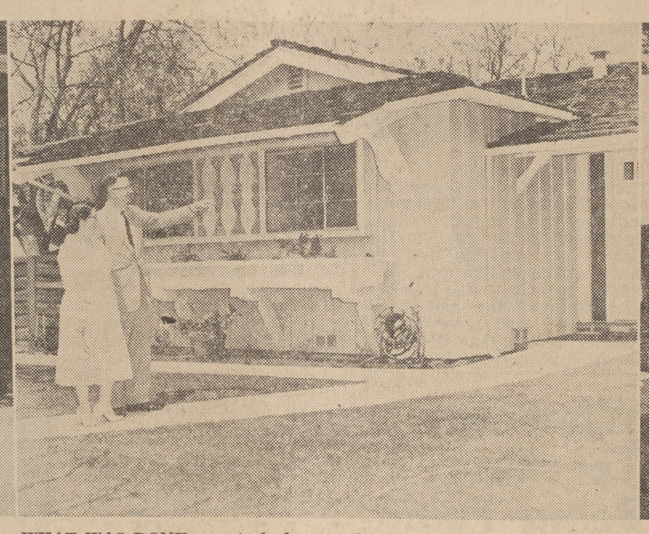
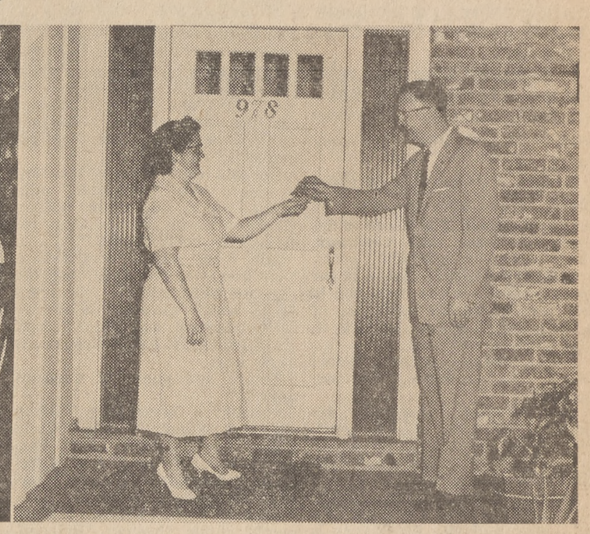
A Realtor's Life? Well, It Goes Something Like This . . .

WHAT IS A DAY like for the Realtor? Here Barney Gilbert, Walnut Creek Realtor and member of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board takes a look at the home of Mrs. Floyd L. Burror of Lafayette. It had grown too small for her expanding family, and she called a Realtor to see if something couldn't be done about it.



WHAT WAS DONE was to look around for something more suitable to the Burror family. This home in Windsor Square Estates in Lafayette just filled the ticket. In the meantime, the original Burror home was put on the market through the Multiple Listing Service of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board.

SIGNING THE BUYER'S agreement is a pleasure, too, for Mrs. Burror who is already full of plans for decorating her new home. In the interim, while paper work is being done by the Realtor, Mrs. Burror's original home has been sold through the Multiple Listing Service by a customer of the Lawrence Wallace Real Estate firm of Lafayette.



IT IS A HAPPY moment for all concerned when Realtor Barney Gilbert delivers the keys to the brand new home. And cooperation among realtors through MLS is permitting Wallace to deliver a set of keys to another satisfied homeowner through the sale of Mrs. Burror's home. This typical scene is repeated hundreds of times weekly by Realtors throughout the area. —Sun photos by Richard Morse.

Realtor Week Prompts Special Events in Area

Al Ingalls, president of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board announced that he has received information from Clive Graham of Long Beach, president of the California Real Estate Association, that Governor Goodwin J. Knight has designated April 13-19 as "Realtor Week."

The Contra Costa Real Estate Board will join hundreds of similar boards across the country during the same period in presenting to the public the high aims and obligations of Realtors, Ingals said.

Special events will be held by the real estate board during the week it was reported.

In the proclamation designating Realtor Week Governor Knight said, "California's population increases by more than 40,000 persons each month, this figure representing new births and an unprecedented migration.

THIS CALLS for a constant increase in housing, highway, school, and transportation facilities. People need and demand facilities to make California the finest State in the Nation.

"The Realtors of California, mindful of the fundamental heritage guaranteed to the individual under our Constitution—the inalienable right to enjoy property ownership—have met and are meeting this responsibility.

Every time a movement is initiated to establish a new community of homes, they have been foremost in seeing to it that men, women, and children are properly housed and that the attendant commercial enterprises are provided.

"REALTORS, always conscious that widespread home ownership brings to this Nation a stability and strength that no other people enjoy, have been successful in efforts to place property ownership within the reach of more families.

"In this, they are pledged to abide by a strict code of ethics. Also, by positive action, manifest most effectively through their Build America Better Program, Realtors continue their drive in all cities to eliminate slums and blighted areas.

"Because of their invaluable action in the upbuilding of our communities, I, Goodwin J. Knight, Governor of California, request that the week of April 13 through April 19, 1958, be recognized as "Realtor Week," and I urge my fellow citizens to join with me in extending warm greetings to the Realtors in our State."

LINED UP AND READY to go are these realtors after a pleasant Monday morning Mart breakfast at El Nido. Shortly after the picture was taken they all filed aboard two buses to tour the area, checking listings and keeping a sharp eye open for homes that would just fill the needs of their customers.

Realtor Dinner Honors Graham, CREA President

Members of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board were hosts to the 1958 president of the California Real Estate Association Clive Graham of Long Beach, at a dinner meeting held at the El Nido Rancho in Lafayette.

Graham was accompanied by H. Jackson Potius, state secretary.

Graham has just returned from meetings with nationally prominent realtor in the east.

Participating with the local board in entertaining the state association executives are members of the Martinez Real Estate Board, Concord Real Estate Board and Eastern Contra Costa Real Estate Board who are joined to make this one of the featured meetings of the year for local realtors.

"We were fortunate to have Clive Graham visit our community in his heavy schedule of travel to local realty boards throughout California," Al Ingalls, board president, said.

Graham reported on real estate conditions, educational and legislative matters affecting the association's activities.

Graham has been making a study of real estate conditions throughout the state and nation. He is particularly optimistic that real estate transactions will continue to hold a permanent position in the business activities of the future, Ingalls said.

Graham was introduced by Barney Gilbert, regional vice-president of the CREA.

Mildred Tinker, Walnut Creek realtor, was in charge of the program and decorations.

CLIVE GRAHAM

Lady Realtor Group Planning Luncheon, Party

Jules Saxe, well-known San Francisco Realtor will be guest speaker at the April 23 meeting of the Women's Division of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board.

The meeting will be held at noon at El Nido in Lafayette.

The Women's Division is also planning a Spring Party to be held April 30 at the Veterans Memorial Building on Locust Street, Walnut Creek.

Theme for the dinner dance will be "Night on the Waterfront."

All Realtors are invited.

High Schools to Welcome Public and Parents

Acalanes High School District schools have invited parents and the general public to "Open House" activities to be held at each of the district's three high schools.

"Open House" programs and regular April Parents' Clubs meetings at the high school will be held on the same dates.

Acalanes and Miramonte High Schools "Open House" programs will be at 8 p.m., Monday, Las Lomas "Open House" at 8 p.m. Thursday.

WHILE PROGRAMS at each of the schools will vary slightly, they will include brief regular parent club meetings, special student displays and opportunities for parents and the public to meet the school faculty members.

Acalanes District trustees encourage "everyone who is interested in local public schools to attend the programs slated for the school in their community," they said.

Observance of Public Schools week marks the eighteenth anniversary of the start of the Acalanes High School District.

Since the first classes held at Acalanes eighteen years ago, enrollment in the Acalanes District has increased 800 per cent, from approximately 400 to nearly 3200 students in the current 1957-58 school year.

STUDENT population predictions indicate that the enrollment growth will quicken rather than slacken in the future. The District anticipates the volume of students now enrolled in elementary schools within the area to help boost the 1960 pupil count to 4700 and push the 1965 enrollment to 6800.

The District trustees and staff pointed "with pride" to the academic record rolled up by Acalanes District graduates in Bay Region colleges and universities in the nation.

Latest reports from Stanford University and the University of California indicate that district graduates in those colleges have earned from the top to above average grades in their college studies.

National standardized Iowa Tests given every two years to students in the high school district show that local high school pupils are "above the national achievement level in all major areas of learning."

Trustees also point out that in comparisons of the district curriculum to national statistics reported by the U. S. Office of Education, the Acalanes District has a definitely greater per cent of pupils enrolled in math and science instruction than the national average with a broader subject offering in math and science instruction than the national average with a broader subject offering in math and science courses than the national average high school provides.

ACALANES District pupils take as many as four major science courses and five math offerings as well as several years of foreign language.

Despite a comprehensive curriculum program for the students of the district and one of the fastest booming enrollments for high school districts in the State, trustees report that studies from the County Department of Education show that the Acalanes District has "consistently had one of the lowest if not the lowest operating costs per pupil for high school districts in Contra Costa."

According to trustees, the problem of "immediate concern in local secondary education is that of trying to pay for the education of double the number of students on the fixed income set by the existing tax rate."

"In addition to meeting the problem of educating twice the number of youngsters on a limited income the district also faces the problem since the war, just as every householder has faced the same problem, of meeting the continued rise in prices for general expenditures."

Since the defeat of the Acalanes District tax limit election last February, Trustees have announced cuts in bus service for the 1958-59 school year, an increase in the pupil-teacher ratio for next year, possible cuts in cafeteria and other services.

If additional income is not forthcoming trustees predict that future cuts "of a much more drastic nature" in the quality of the education program and bus and other services are 'inevitable.'

Polio Clinic Will be Today

"Now is the time for everyone under 40 years of age to be immunized against polio," Dr. Elvira Goettsch, Assistant Health Officer, said when announcing the next Health Department Immunization Clinic for the Pleasant Hill area.

Dr. Goettsch pointed out that polio immunizations for adults are just as important as those for children. She went on to say that immunizations should be obtained from one's private physician, who keeps a complete record of all medical services and needs.

Health Department clinics are maintained to serve those who would have difficulty in obtaining these services privately.

The Health Department Immunization Clinic will be held at the Community Baptist Church, 924 Pleasant Hill Road, from 2 to 5 p.m. today.

Those 13 years of age and under must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

Reading Gets Much Attention In High Schools

Special courses and regular classroom reading units are being given students in Las Lomas, Acalanes and Miramonte High Schools, according to Acalanes District Superintendent Neil M. Parsons.

"Basically there are two types of reading problems students and teachers are assailing," Parsons said. 'Developmental" reading courses for average and above average readers and 'Corrective' courses for readers with special reading problems are given.

The district reading program starts when the student arrives from elementary school, generally with a history of his reading proficiency in his elementary record.

Teachers especially trained in reading instruction conduct courses offered specifically for reading improvement. Many of the district faculty recently concluded an inservice training course in teaching reading sponsored by the district.

Both reading improvement courses and regular classroom units emphasize techniques designed to improve the student's reading proficiency.

According to members of the district staff, reading skills are tailored to the purpose for which reading matter is read: skim reading for general information; intensive reading for text books; procedures for pleasure reading; vocabulary expansion for all types of reading; and an analysis of the reader's comprehension of what has been read as well as other specifics related to sucessful reading practices.

Iowa Tests, a national standardized achievement test given periodically to freshmen and juniors, indicate that Acalanes District students, on the whole, are above the national average in reading ability.

Teachers report that magazines in the home, encouraged useof books and an active parent interest in school assignments helps the teacher's effort to improve the student's reading ability.

Two-County Transit Directors Quit Battle for Rail Retention on Bridge

Directors of the Alameda-Contra Costa Transit District voted April 10 against carrying their fight to preserve the Bay Bridge rails to the State Supreme Court.

The split 4-3 vote came after Robert E. Nisbet, attorney for the district, reported that any appeal to the Supreme Court would have "two strikes against it."

NISBET SAID that the appeal could only be based on the contention that the State Public Utilities Commission did not act lawfully in its recent decision allowing Key System to abandon its transbay train service.

No new evidence could be introduced before the Supreme Court, Nisbet said. The district's contention would be that the PUC did not allow new evidence into the proceedings that could have changed the PUC decision, he added.

More than 100 spectators were present at the meeting to urge that the rails be preserved.

April 1, the PUC reaffirmed an earlier decision to allow Key to go ahead with its changeover to a bus operation, due to take effect Sunday.

The defeated motion to carry the legal maneuvering to the Supreme Court was made by Director Robert M. Copeland and seconded by Director J. Howard Arnold. The only additional supporting vote came from Robert K. Barber, board president. Voting against the measure were Directors William J. Bettencourt, Paul E. Deadrich, John L. McDonnell and Clair W. MacLeod.

BETTENCOURT said he voted against the proposal because there was such little hope of its success. The district has waged a relentless battle against removal of the rails, he said, adding that the directors should now devote their time, enthusiasm and energy toward presenting the best transit program possible for the East Bay at the general elections next November.

Director Arnold contended there were many other avenues of legal action and urged the directors to explore all possible steps before giving up on keeping the bridge rails.

Judge Denies Blakeman Writ

Superior Judge Norman A. Gregg this week denied a writ of habeas corpus for Seth Blakeman, 43-year-old former Lafayette resident who is accused of violation of his probation on an assault and battery conviction almost a year ago.

A former scoutmaster and an airline pilot, Blakesman was released on his own recognizance pending appeal.

His attorney stated that appeal would be on two points:

That the trial judge, Hugh H. Donovan, erred last May in giving Blakeman a one-year suspended sentence, since the maximum sentence allowed for assault and battery is six months.

And, that banishment from Contra Costa County for a year, a condition for the suspended sentence.

Blakeman had originally been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor but trial on that charge ended in a mistrial. He then pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was fined $500 and placed under a suspended sentence.

Following recent hearing on charges that Blakeman had returned to the county several times since his conviction, Judge Donovan found Blakeman in violation of his probation and remanded him to the sheriff's custody.

'Cape Capwell's' Missile Launching Set for High Noon

"Cape Capwell's" (formally known as the Capwell's Parking Lot in the Broadway Shopping Center) will be a beehive of activity tomorrow noon when missile launching will be the highlight of the day.

A proto-type ballistic missile, of not quite the proportions of the inter-continental type, will soar high to the sky as Toy Department Ted Guppy leads his small force of daring scientists in the experimentation.

Described as Defense Department Officials of Capwell's as a missile which is equipped with a harmless propellant, it will be demonstrated for one hour.

Along with the missile demonstration, Capwell's will give free comic books on space and the atmosphere to children free of charge.

Of course, no launging would be complete without our spacemen and on hand, dressed to fit the part, will be crew and engineers of Cape Capwell's.

Public Records Really Public? Reporters Speak

The question: "Are Public Records Really Public?" intrigued three panel speakers Saturday afternoon during the Contra Costa Press Club's seventh annual "Newspaper Institute."

Richard Osborn, associate editor of The Sun, said that the lack of knoweldge that a document exists in effect makes it "secret," in many cases.

He said, "If you find out about them, of course you are told they are public. But if you don't, until too late, they can say, 'Why didn't you ask?' "

OSBORN ADDED that it is the responsibility of the reporter to find out about the existence of a document, where to get it, and how to evaluate it.

"The average citizens would never have a chance," he commented.

Carl Johnson, Independent reporter, said that on his courthouse beat, there are "more records available than I could ever find time to look at."

He added that "digging it out" is a big job, and often the aid of county and city employees is a big factor.

VINCE VANDERVERT, editor of the Contra Costa Times, said that in his experience, records are public except "Where there is something I want to see badly."

On a controversial item, he has found that no one who should know is able to help him in finding the necessary document.

He said, "The best thing I found is to get to know everyone as best as I can, and find out which officials dislike others, and play both ends against the middle."

He added that often public officials are confused on how far the people's "right to know" extends.

THE STORY OF the "Great Chicken Theft" as told by Charles Johnson, the Independent's reported in Pinole, brought smiles to the listeners.

Johnson said that he had heard that a chicken had been stolen from a refrigerator, but when he talked to police he learned that they had not, and did not plan to make any report of the matter.

And they refused to divulge the name of the victimized household.

Since Pinole usually is relatively quiet, any incident of this sort is newsworthy. So Johnson went to the police chief. The chief also said he could not make the case public. "I never did find out who the woman was," Johnson said.

ANOTHER reporter told how he questioned a police chief about misconduct of one of his police officers. The chief finally told all, but admitted, "If you hadn't come and asked me, I would never have mentioned it."

Dwight Bentel, San Jose State College professor and panel moderator, interjected that people these days are too quick to accept the secret classifications put on documents by national government officials.

He said that when it was announced that "restricted" material would be made public, much of it was immediately reclassified, "confidential."

Jim Ritch, editor of the Contra Costa Gazette, said that the reporter must use his judgement as to which material is proper for publication, and which is not.

TWO OTHER panel discussions were held.

Topics and panelists were as follows:

"Should a Newspaper Take a Political Stand?" Jim Ritch, Contra Costa Gazette; John Ferris, Oakland Tribune, Bud Wakeland, Independent; Gentry Durham, Brentwood News.

Should News Rivals Fraternize?" John Sheehan, Independent; Charles Bosley, political campaign manager; Julius Rosenthal, Contra Costa Gazette.

A GENERAL meeting was held earlier, and an "Advertizing Section" was held at the same time as the editorial section.

The discussions were held at East Contra Costa Junior College.

After a social hour at the Concord Sportsmen's Club, they returned to the college for dinner and to hear a talk by Charles Moore, United Press correspondent who has returned from "Assignment Deepfeeze."

No Tax Relief Available For Flood Damage Suffered

The Assessor of Contra Costa County will be legally unable to provide any tax relief for recent storm damage sufferers "at this time," Assessor C. L. Dunklee learned last weekend in informal conferences with other Bay Area Assessors in Santa Cruz.

The current legislative hassel between the north and south over water allocations and the state budget was blamed for lack of immediate remedial legislative action, Dunklee said.

Because of this and the gravity of the Contra Costa situation, the State Association of County Assessors of California has called an extraordinary session of that body to meet in Redding May 1, 2 and 3.

THE MEETING will be utilized to explore assessment problems with regard to floods and the assessment of private property on Federal lands, according to Russell Horstmann, Alameda County Assessor and Secretary of the organization.

These are two of Contra Costa's greatest assessment problems, Dunklee said today.

Meanwhile the local assessor, recognizing he is bound by the California law to make assessments according to the March 3 market value of lands and improvements (the "lien date" that arrived only days before the county's disaster) said property owners affected would receive at least some measure of relief through one of several actions on the part of his office:

1. The assessor's office recognizes that slides destroyed 20 homes here before March 3 and he has instructed his staff to remove them from the tax rolls.

2. The Gregory Gardens area where property owners have been getting a five to 15 per cent cut in assessments for the past two years because of similar conditions will continue to receive these benefits on the present rolls.

Gregory Gardens was flooded out this year twice, once before the March deadline, and Dunklee has taken the position that realty market values have been hit again.

3. Property owners may protest current assessments made in March on subsequently damaged properties to the Board of Supervisors when it meets on July 7 through July 21 as a Board of Equalization.

DUNKLEE SAID his office would resist no "reasonable" request for adjustment and that he had more than one-half his staff in the field checking damages so his office "would know what was reasonable."

Dunklee said he fully expected that at least $1 million assessed valuation would be lost from the 1958-59 tax rolls as a result of storm damages and said he hoped the Redding meeting of the State Assessors would come up with some formula for emergency legislation which would provide relief equally to the private citizens for taxes and the county for tax losses in event of future disasters.

Nejedly Takes 'Leave' for DA County Campaign

Walnut Creek City Attorney John Nejedly has been granted a leave of absence, beginning May 1, during which he will campaign for election as Contra Costa County district attorney.

He told councilmen Wednesday night that he will be absent until election time. The primary election is June 3, and the general election is in November.

Nejedly said later that attorney Douglas Cowan will perform many of his duties as city attorney during the interval, and that he himself will continue to help out where possible.

Nejedly declared earlier this year that he will oppose incumbent District Attorney Francis Collins of Pinole, who has held the post for 15 years.

Nejedly said he will be a "full-time" district attorney and added that Collins' private practice interferes with his job as district attorney, due to overlapping and loss of time on the official job.

He has also critcized the procedures which he said encouraged persons who come to see the district attorney to become private clients of Collins and his aides.

The girls have had a busy program covering a variety of activities such as an afternoon of roller skating at Skate Haven in Walnut Creek and a joint meeting with other Del Rey troops to view camp slides.

The troop will take part in the annual "Girl Scouts in Action" to be held at Acalanes High School in Lafayette on April 26 and shortly after that event will have a trip through one of the local dairies.

Where Will New Hospital Go? Doctors Ponder

Questionaires which indicate which hospital site is preferred by members of the Walnut Creek Hospital Association will be examined tonight by Association directors.

The questionaires had been sent out to the 70 members and a few outside doctor contributors last week, and discussion was held on the possible choices at a meeting last Saturday at the city hall.

The doctors may decide to consolidate with Martinez doctors who have offered to contribute $500,000 to $1 million for construction of a hospital, provided it be located in the area of Pleasant Hill Road and Grayson Road.

The Martinez doctors have said that they would not request any immediate contribution from central county doctors, and the central county doctors would not have to guarantee payment of the mortgage.

Doctors who wish to have their hospital closer to Walnut Creek have been offered two sites in Ygnacio Valley, and these sites have been discussed favorably by several Association members.

There is also the site at Geary Road and Pleasant Hill Road, which the city of Walnut Creek has decided to rezone for hospital use if the site is chosen, and when the land is annexed.

At the Saturday meeting, Bruce Copeland, chairman of the Finance Committee, said that the Martinez doctors have the money saved from profits taken in over the years at the Martinez Community Hospital. But there are only 11 doctors in that area and they would need the business that some 70 doctors in Walnut Creek, Lafayette, Pleasant Hill, Alamo and Danville could bring in, he said.

This is why they want to join with the Walnut Creek Hospital Association, he said.

Means of independently financing the hospital construction have been discussed, and several "package" deals, have been considered.

If the Martinez proposals are accepted, a 150-bed hospital will be built. If the Association proceeds independently, it will provide a 50-bed hospital, costing about $800,000 including construction, equipment and maintenance.

Private Practice Section of Jury Report Study Set

A complete report on the recommendations of the Contra Costa Grand Jury concerning the district attorney's office will be heard by delegates of the Pleasant Hill Civic Council Monday night at 8 at Fair Oaks School.

Wendell Parker, chairman of the Government Services Committee of the council will review in particular, he said, the "private practice of the district attorney and his deputies."

THE CIVIC COUNCIL has been reviewing recommendations of the grand jury to determine what action has been taken on the recommendations by county officials.

The grand jury implied the district attorney's office might be involved with "possible conflict of interest."

The 1956-57 Grand Jury's foreman, Phil Bancroft Jr., said in the annual report of the jury:

"In connection with the study of the District Attorney's Office, the committee heard expressions of concern from a great many quarters with respect to the policy of the District Attorney of maintaining a private law practice and of his permitting his deputies to have private law practices.

"A variety of criticisms of this practice were voiced including the following:

"1. Possibility of questionable legal solicitations: Citizens who seek the district attorney's assistance may wind up as clints of a deputy. When a case does not come within the county's jurisdiction it is possible for the deputy to solicit the case for his private practice.

"2. Possible conflicts of interest: In their private practices the district attorney and his deputies become associated with many people. Some of these may violate the law. When this occurs there may be a tendency to minimize the charges; perhaps accepting a plea to a lesser offense. In civil cases involving the county and a former client there may be some tendency to be sympathetic.

"Even the most scrupulously honest individual finds it difficult to be completely objective in such situations.

"Assignment of a different deputy to handle such cases is not a satisfactory solution to the problem, because frequently the county would lose the services of the man best qualified by training and experience to handle the case.

"The solution of our federal government to this problem has been to prohibit the employee associations which might lead to conflict of interest.

Gordon E. Langlois, chairman of the law enforcement committee, added to the report, "These recommendations regarding the District Attorney Francis Collins and his staff, who we feel are doing as sincere, conscientious and effective a job as is possible under existing conditions are not intended as criticism."

A REPORT on the activities of the district attorney and his deputies was to have been presented by Parker's committee at the March meeting of the civic council, but was postponed to give the situation further study, Parker said.

'Seamail' Bottle Brings Orinda Teacher Tidings

A bottle dropped overboard off the coast of Mexico recently brought tidings to an Orinda sixth grade teacher from one of his pupils and from a Mexican youth who recovered the note-bearing bottle.

It all started when 11-year1old Donald Parce, sixth grade student in the Sleepy Hollow School class of teacher Jack Clark, embarked on a trip to Central America with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Parce of Orinda.

As the Parce's ship was off the coast of Acapulco, young Parce followed suit of other voyagers and enclosed a note in a bottle and dropped the bottle overboard. Parce's note was to his teacher, Clark.

The ship's steward explained to the passengers that such note-bearing bottles are customarily picked up by fishermen and mailed to the addressee—providing postage and a little remuneration are enclosed in the bottle.

However, according to Clark, young Parce's bottle wasn't picked up by fishermen but instead drifted ashore where it was retrieved by 18-year-old Gustavo Goldofo, a medical student at the Univeristy of Mexico.

Goldofo forwarded young Parce's message to Clark and enclosed a note of his own, stating that he was anxious to correspond with persons in the United States, Clark said.

Off-Duty Officer Breaks Teen Age Burglary Ring

A teen age burglary and shoplifting ring responsible for at least 10 house breakins and an untold number of shoplifttings was broken yesterday through the alertness of an off-duty Contra Costa Sheriff's Department Detective.

Detective H. E. "Bud" Hobert, central county sub station, spotted two youths in a car, which had been described on Monday as the getaway car from a burglary in Alamo and stopped the vehicle.

HOBERT FOUND two guns and a 18 inch bolo knife on the floor of the suspect's car and called detective Louis Skuce to assist him with the interrogation of the Las Lomas High School students. They were apprehended on Grayson Road in Pleasant Hill.

Skuce and Hobert both had been searching throughout the central county area for the car.

The two youths confessed to numerous breakins, but, according to the detectives, they had perpatrated so many crimes they were unable to give details on all the stores they had "visited."

THEIR ACTIVITIES took them from Jack London Square in Oakland to Port Chicago as well as the central county area, Skuce said.

Hobert noted that a small arsenal was confiscated from the three youths, all aged 17.

The youths, who are Walnut Creek residents, are in the hands of juvenile authorities.

WHAT'S DOING
Howard Greenhalgh, your Telephone Manager in Orinda

Why are these two phone men having such a hard time opening that metal box? You can blame it on corrosion. It can rust or crack even tough metals, and here it has sealed the box shut. Phone wires from your house are connected to a box like this. But this one, in a special test, was exposed to wind, fog and ocean spray. We use these tests to learn new facts about corrosion. We also test to find metals that can resist it, yet are economical. By controlling this and other destroyers, we save thousands of dollars worth of equipment each year—and make your service still more reliable.

SAFETY DRIVER OF THE MONTH

Floyd R. Elam, repairman for Pacific Telephone, has recently been honored by the Concord Junior Chamber of Commerce as "Driver of the Month." He was singled out by the Concord Police Department for his continuous safe and courteous driving. Floyd remarked upon receiving the award that safe driving had become a habit as a result of the training he had received from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

He stated that the Telephone Company has a continuous safe driving program which stresses ti its employees the necessity for courteous driving habits.

Floyd further remarked that his wife, Marjorie, and three children, who reside at 2706 Courtland Dive, Concord, are four good reasons for making safe and courteous driving an everyday practice.

The whole family is invited to take part in the day's activities which will include the bean feed, free hot dogs, lemonade, salads, "cokes," cotton candy, ice cream, balloons and prizes galore, according to Jack Clark, co-owner.

"There'll be entertainment by Bo Bo the Clown and all sorts of races and games. And, some lucky person attending the all-day celebration will be the winner of the sewing machine which will be given in the prize-drawing," Clark said.

A highlight of the event will be the greased pig chase. The prize for the party who catches the porker? The pig himself. The person who catches the pig wins the pig, which goes on Clark's butcher's block to become the lucky winner's next month's supply of ham, pork and bacon.

Broadway's Got a Fever

Do you have Spring Fever?

Well, if you don't by now you will have when you stop into the Broadway Shopping Center next week, according to George Webster, chairman of the Broadway Merchants' Association.

Next Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday—April 23 through April 26—marks Broadway Shopping Center's big Springtime promotion campaign, designed to bring Spring to the hearts of winter-oriented residents emerging from long months of hibernation.

The title of the promotion? "Broadway Has Spring Fever."

"Maybe Spring Fever isn't exactly the word that describes what we have planned for next week," Webster said, "because we're anything but in the doldrums about the merchandise, colors and styles we'll be displaying. On the contrary, we're pretty excited about it all and we feel the people who visit the enter will feel the same way."

Keynote of the four-day salute to spring, Webster said, will be the showcasing of every concievable item—from wearing apparel to garden tools—that has to do with spring.

Got Weed Problems? Just Plow 'Em Under!

Spring is finally in the air, and most people have harkened to its coming by noting the rash of weeds that flourish like the green Bay tree.

It is almost axiomatic that to own a home in suburbia means to own weeds in suburbia too. And there are only three things you can do with weeds.

You can, of course, ignore them. But this doesn't lead to peace of mind, and besides, the neighbors object.

You can pull them up. This is the conventional approach, and it requires hours of backbreaking anguish and labor.

Or you can plow them under. AND THAT IS what one Central Contra Costa resident has decided to do. Of course, this requires a motorized tractor of some sort. Now this resident was a pretty sharp resident. He checked the Sun classified ads and found one for sale.

The ad read: "Garden tractor and attachments, $75. Briggs Stratton motor", followed by the telephone number.

The tractor belonged to C. Anaclerio, 1424 Walden Road, Walnut Creek, and he sold his tractor in no time flat.

Thus, two satisfied people. One with cash in hand, other with tractor in hand.

ANY CLASSIFIED ad appears Wednesday in the Sun Shopping News and Friday in the Lafayette, Orinda, Walnut Creek and Pleasant Hill Suns, and all for the one price. Of course, if the ad is placed for more than one week there is a corresponding reduction in the cost, which makes it a real bargain.

Classified ads which get results can be placed at any of The Sun offices or by phone — CL 4-4343, AT 4-4444 or YE 4-5000.

Junior Leaguers Both Dutiful and Beautiful

By MARIE MONAHAN

An amazing record of the group's achievements for 1957-1958 was recounted by Junior League president Mrs. John S. Cooper in her annual report at last week's annual membership luncheon at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley.

The outgoing president charmingly thanked her colleagues for lending their brains, heart and muscles to the year's many accomplishments.

There was no need to mention beauty, for the Leaguers,, needless to say, have plenty of that, too, a very special kind of sparkle that comes from knowing they are part of a real working organization giving its very best to a growing community.

Along with the membership luncheon,, the group celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the League's house organ, the News Sheet, by holding an advertiser's fair in honor of those who buy space in their slick magazine.

Pre-lunch aperitifs were enjoyed on the mezzanine where the exhibits were displayed along with fashions modeled by Provisional members.

A very elegrant lace and linen frock from Hill 'n Dale, modeled by Barbara Heard,, was just what Exhibit Chairman Barbara looking for. She bought it right there and then.

Attractive on Lafayette's Shirley Wdiskirch was an Alfred Nipkow ensemble, a grey and white tweed blouson suit, ready for town with its crisp white straw cloche.

Appropos of Fiesta Fashions was the sports costume of white sharkskin pedal pushers worn with a bold blue topper and a huge straw hat promenaded by Connie Brooding.

Jean Hoyt, Nancy Mouser, Cis Sibbertt, and Midge Zoschke, all of Orinda and Lafayette and June Harring completed the entourage of mannequins.

In from Danville was vivacious Connie Rowe, a pert black velvet bow perched on her short blonde coif.

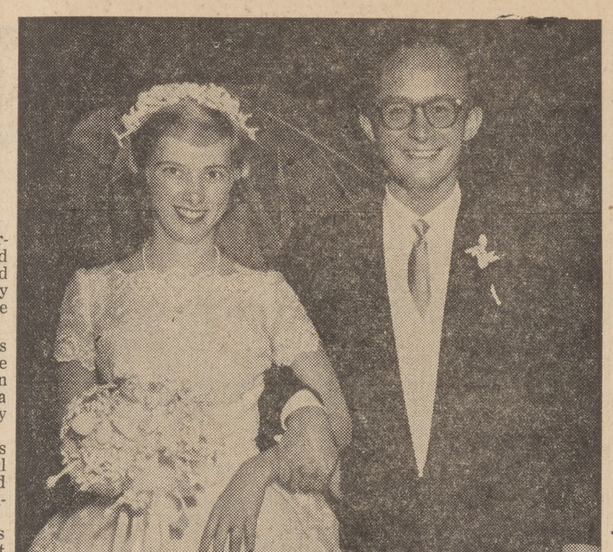
Cis Larkin, Orinda, who is the new hospitality chairman, admiring a spring table setting of artificial hyancinths and white glazed ceramic dishes on a mauve net cloth, gay pink and red print wallpaper display giving Cynthia Stampley ideas. She arrived with Liz Cunningham. The two Orinda matrons were among those blossoming forth in flowered chapeaug, both of theirs festooned overall with delicate pastel petals. Carolyne Havre, Jody Allen, Jane Burr together, Jane later taking a bow as new president of the Contra Costa County Volunteer Bureau.

Enjoying the lunch of pineapple-on-the-half-shell and creamy coconut tarts were Rene Dana of Lafayette, her orange and white slik print dress and saucy stray saucer hat calling for compliments. Next to her was Jean Weeks, Lafayette, wearing a white crocheted head-hugging cloche.

Others present were tall Nancy Longacre of Orinda, smart in the chemise-look, Jackie O'Connor in Navy blue joining a table . . . Marian Eyman of Lafayette . . . Janet Angell, new Public Relations Chairman of the League, chatting with her predecessor Mardie Robinson of Lafayette, both in springtime-pink outfits, and Phyllis Woods of Orinda, giving a report as head of the Educational committee.

Sitting at the president's table high on the dais were Jeanette Howard, Orinda League vice-president, Katie Nutting, Walnut Creek, recording secretary, and Doshie Sleeper, Walnut Creek, Country director.

You might say, from where they sat, they were looking over a four-leaf clover—a room full of energetic and dutiful, however beautiful, women.



DOWN THE AISLE go the new Mr. and Mrs. Louis Goruon Hooper who were married in the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church. His parents are the Louis Gordon Hoopers of Sereno, Orinda. She is the former Rita Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Wood of Lafayette.

Guide Dog Yacht Tour Wednesday

Members and guests of Guide Dogs for the Blind will "Put on the Dog" with something quite a bit different in the way of benefit tours on Wednesday.

A yacht tour to include three members of the Golden Fleet, the luxury crafts that sail to greet visiting royalty or dignitaries arriving by ship, was originally slated to follow the Apirl 2 membership luncheon at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. But attending faithfuls, wearing raincoats and galoshes, quickly deceided to "sail" for home-port instead, during that downpour, and leave the yacht-inspection for another day.

According to Mrs. Jerry Walker of Orinda who serves on the board of directors of the training school in San Rafael, tickets for the tour of the pleasure crafts moored at the St. Francis Yacht Club are still available to any contributing member or guest for a donation and can be picked up at the first yacht, the "Wololi" from Guide Dog members identified by satin arm bands.

Sea Scouts will be on hand to direct the guests and to give out knitted socks, courtesy of TWA, to those who wear high-heels which are not conducive to climbing aboard ship.

Among localites who'll go "on deck" to inspect Dan London's flagship "The Adventures," the lead ship of the Golden Fleet, are Mesdames A. L. Pelusi and Burton Brace of Danville, Mesdames Perry Slingsby, James F. Bailey, Stanley Dollar Jr. and Joseph Simpson of Walnut Creek, Mesdames Claire Roche, J. M. Rodwell, A. H. Bastain, Arthur Somers and Lloyd Reilly of Orinda, Mrs. Anna M. Pleasant of Pittsburg and Mrs. E. G. Timme of Alamo.

The membership drive, currently in progress serves to stimulate interest in the need for prividing guide dogs for blind persons in the bay area. A recent recipient of one of the school's trained canine-companions was Miss Rose Resnick, well-known to many here for her work with the Enchanted Hills Camp. For further details, call Ruth Walker at CL 4-3196.

On The Lighter Side

by INA BLIESNER • YE 4-3818

Just talked with lovely Vawn Tolles, for I had heard that one of her daughters had been married recently. Vawn was the Chairman for the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center's Christmas "Gift Box" last year—and is one of those fabulous persons who is an inspiration to all who are lucky enough to come into contact with her.

IT CAME AS a shock to me that she and King are the parents of four GROWN children. They had planned a trip to Pocatello, Idaho to attend the Golden Wedding anniversary of Vawn's parents. One night the phone rang and daughter, Diane, announced that she and the boy with whom she had been going for the past four years, Henry ("Hank") Whiffen, had decided that this was a most opportune time for a wedding.

They are both attending Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah and had both been students at Diablo High School here. When Vawn had caught her breath she flew to Utah to help during two days preceding the event. She "bunked" with Diane and her five room-mates, all of whom were bridal attendants, and had a marvelous time. King followed in time for the ceremony which took place in the University "Ward" with a large reception following —attended mostly by collegians.

Just a dream of an outfit

The girl's outfits must have been a dream. Powder blue with white chiffon cumberbunds which looped in the back and ended in flowing sashes. They wore short white gloves and carried white baskets with handles which had been entwined with blue and from which blue ribbons cascaded. The baskets were filled with dainty white daisies. The young couple will be home at the end of the term and the Tolles are planning an Open House for them in June

Following this excitement came the visit to Pocatello where Vawn's six brothers and sisters also gathered. The night preceding reception in the large ballroom of the "Bannack Hotel," the seven children honored their parents with a dinner party at which time they were presented with gifts of jewelry which featured the birthstone of each.

THE WALNUT CREEK JAYCETTES, an auxiliary to the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, are most pleased with the success of their third annual wine tasting party which was held on a recent Saturday night. The Sportsman's club seemed a perfect setting for this event which drew more than 200 guests, many coming from Pittsburg and Martinez as well as our closer communities.

General Chairman was Mrs. Harry Kindorf and one of her many aides was the Club's President, Mrs. Robert Covert.

Apparently the annual "Mad Hatters" dinner dance at Diablo is one of the Club's most popular affairs. Have heard more favorable comments about this last one! There were many pre-dance parties given, as usual. One was hosted by Donna and Bill Winslow in their home on Cragmont Drive in Walnut Creek.

Donna, who is a colorful person year-round, looked especially so in an oh! so spring-like, bouffant, printed frock. Some of their guest were Bev and Eric Nelson of Concord, Gwen and Bill Morrison, Virginia (looking scrumptious in a pale blue chiffon sheath with matching slippers) and Steve Donahoe, Maxine and Dave Buffington and the Jerry Meinbresses—all of Lafayette. Also there were Ann and Roy Doty of Walnut Creek.

Get out and shine those cookies!

Have you ever heard of a "Cookie Shine." Well, all Pi Phis have, for that is the traditional name for that sorority's get togethers when the members sit comfortably around on the floor and eat.

One of these was held last week at Mrs. John Gillan's home in Pleasant Hill. The food for this particular "Cookie Shine" was in the form of a pot-luck dinner and the evening was planned to celebrate Founder's Day. The highlight of the evening was when Mrs. Richard Kohler, president of this alumni group, presented lively, 89 year old Mrs. Della Rogers Gerber of Antioch, who had insisted that she join the "girls" on the floor, with the "Golden Arrow Pin" which represents 50 years or more as a PI Phi. The dinner was placed on a large white cloth decorated with the sorority's colors, wine and silver blue.

SOME OF THE other members were Mmes. E. J. Molloy, George Dibble, Arthur Kaiser, Robert Preece, William Herrin, E. F. Crider, and Robert Ruppreet.

The Laurel Juniors, a branch of the Childrens Hospital, entertained with a lovely dance at the Sequoia Country Club a week ago. Libby and Fenn Wilson of Orinda invited their guests to a predance dinner party as did most of the members.

This branch was originally formed in Piedmont but almost every Laurel Junior now lives on this side of the tunnel. This is a most active group even though most of the gals have school age children and many other activities and responsibilities. As Paula Martin danced with her husband, Donald, to the strains of music provided by Paul Faria's orchestra, even the husbands agreed that the chemise just might have something.

Check those yards of beads

Paula wore a spectacular one of aqua blue lace with yards and yards of beads as accesories. Mrs. David Fink, too, caused heads to turn. This stunning and prominent former model wore a dream of a white costume. A few other couples were the Robert Wiebens, Lloyd Kindalls and the Robert Gilfellans. Now, with this party behind them, the Laurel Juniors will start to work on plans for their traditionally outstanding fashion show in October.

The multi-purpose room at the Walnut Creek School (which had benn "de-mudded" just in time) was the setting for "John Baldwin Night." Attending was a large and enthusiastic group of G.O.P. precinct workers who gathered for an old fashioned "politico feast" complete with scads of luscious home baked cakes cut in huge wedges—making it possible for participants to choose any number of delicious flavors. I heard the word, first hand, that this seemed to be a gathering of old friends.

MRS. HAL BATES, who returned from a women's G.O.P. conclave in Washington, D.C. just in time, was in charge of arrangements, with Joan (Mrs. Harmon) assisting. The Matt Connellys. Frank Youngs and Stanley Friedens were among those present.

"Timberline Lodge" in Oregon sounds as if it would be THE perfect place for a winter vacation—or any time of the year, for that matter. Nada Miller, a speech therapist here at the Therapy Center, has just returned after a week there and is bubbling over with enthusiasm! Wonderful atmosphere, wonderful accommodations, ditto—food and ski conditions were perfect. Just before Nada left she received word from the Federal Office of Rehabilitation that she was the recipient of a grant to attend (ALL expenses paid) a work shop at the University of Iowa. As this is her alma mater and her parents live nearby—this is a particular thrill.

Speech Therapists from all over the country will gather there the last week of June to become better informed in handling the problems of those who stutter.

I hear glowing reports of the Hummingbird, Cal Alumni and Hill 'n' Dale dances last week-end, but the end of the page is here so, continued next week.

U.S. DISTRICT COURT Judge Oliver D. Hamlin and wife, Gertrude, pose in the study of their home on Sky High Ranch, which has been in the Hamlin family since the land was settled in 1871 by Judge Hamlin's grandfather. The judge, who this month celebrates his 43rd year since being admitted to the bar, has been appointed to a judgeship on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. He will be sworn in for his new duties in the next two weeks.—Sun Photo by Morse.

Lafayette's Judge Hamlin Prepares for New US Post

By FRED HILL

When Judge Oliver D. Hamlin brought in his mail one day recently it included a large cardboard mailing tube, postmarked Washington, D. C.

Inside the mailing tube was an authoritative looking document signed by no lesser personage than President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This official notice confirmed Judge Hamlin's recent appointment to one of the highest judicial offices in the land—a judgeship in the Ninth District of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, with headquarters in San Francisco, handles Uncle Sam's legal business for the seven western states of Washington, California, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona, as well as the territories of Hawaii and Alaska and the Island of Guam.

JUDGE HAMLIN will be one of the nine judges for the circuit, filling a seat vacated by Judge William Denman, who retired last July 1. As the oldest member in point of service, Judge Denman had been chief judge for the circuit.

Judge Hamlin, presently a judge in San Francisco's U. S. District Court, will be sworn in to his new office as soon as he concludes some current business with the District Court.

The new judge will be sworn in, probably in the next week by Judge Albert Lee Stephens, Chief Judge of the Ninth District of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The Ninth District, largest geographically of the U. S. judicial districts, handles all appelate cases in matters where U. S. statutes are involved.

Judge Hamlin explained that the circuit court is likely to handle any violation of a U. S. statute, ranging anywhere from admiralty and patent laws to criminal cases involving bank robbery, postal laws, and immigration and naturalization.

JUDGE HAMLIN'S final confirmation this week was the culmination of the lengthy process of appointment to the high office.

It all began following the retirement of Judge Denman when Judge Hamlin was recommended for the post by California's two senators.

The recommendation was sent through President Eisenhower and the U. S. Attorney General's office. With approval from these two offices, the appointment then went to the senate for confirmation.

Appointment to the post, as worded on the document from Washington, is "during good behavior."

Have there ever been any instances of misbehavior on the part of the judges?

According to Judge Hamlin, there have been, but these are quite rare and are generally answered by impeachment proceedings in congress.

ALTHOUGH THE appointment is not stipulated in a specific number of years, Judge Hamlin pointed out that judges are eligible for retirement after the age of 70 and after 10 years of service.

Judge Hamlin, member of a pioneer Lafayette family, is no newcomer, either to the bench or to the legal profession.

This month he is marking the 43rd anniversary of his being admitted to the bar. A graduate of University of California Law School in 1914, Judge Hamlin began his practice of law in 1915.

During most of the 32 years in which he practiced law before serving in a judicial capacity, Judge Hamlin was affiliated with the Oakland law firm of Donahue, Hines and Hamlin, which later became Donahue, Richards and Hamlin after the death of a partner.

In 1947, when a vacancy existed in Alameda County, Judge Hamlin was appointed Alameda County superior judge by then Governor Earl Warren.

TWO YEARS LATER, Judge Hamlin was re-elected to the post and served as Alameda County superior judge until 1953 when he was named as a judge with the U. S. District Court. From 1953 until now he has served with the District Court.

Judge Hamlin lives with his wife, Gertrude, in a gracious home atop one of Lafayette's higher hills. From the windows of the home, the Hamlins have a sweeping view of Lafayette below and the towering Mount Diablo off in the distance.

The Hamlin's home, built 17 years ago on the rambling property they named "Sky High Ranch," is situated on property settled in 1871 by the judge's grandfather. Originally 175 acres of frontier land, the Hamlin property on Sky High Ranch has been whittled down, through subdivisions to its present 60 acres.

Much of the land was subdivided 10 years ago, Judge Hamlin explained, while much of the remainder was subdivided a few years back.

JUDGE HAMLIN BUILT his present home 17 years ago, intending to live in it. However, his office as superior judge in Alameda County brought about a change in plans, since the office required its holder to reside in Alameda County.

It wasn't until five years ago, when the judge was appointed to the District Court, that he moved into the home he had built 12 years earlier.

For a man whose father and grandfather had lived in the Lafayette area, and who himself has lived here much of his life, many changes have been wrought.

The hill on which the judge's home sits, now covered with an abundance of trees planted by the judge, was barren 17 years ago, he notes, as was much of the surrounding area.

Life of a Flying Officer In 20's Recalled by Foster

By NORMAN COLBY

Whatever happened to those confident, smiling young lieutenants of the pioneer U. S. Army "Air Service" who during World War I and in the 1920's were the subject of so much romantic fiction and amazing factual accounts?

Where are those wild lads who posed, smiling, leaning against their wooden-framed, paper covered, two-winged "Jennys"—before they nonchalantly climbed into the cockpits and roared off into the sky, rabbits feet held tightly?

Most of them died as young lieutenants or young captains of the U. S. Army Air Service.

A VERY FEW of them survived to become famous air commanders of World War II.

And on the "roll of honor" are men like retired Colonel Thad Foster of Ivanhoe Avenue, which is midway between Lafayette and Pleasant Hill.

Thad Foster has behind him 31 adventurous years of service, which began in 1916 when he became a flying student at a Texas flying school, and ended in 1947, when he retired as a Regular Army full colonel.

He now has time to look back on those days when he flew without a parachute because they weren't part of the equipment until 1921, when he tested the Marlin and Lewis machine guns, when he walked away from two crashes and even did some risky flying which was recorded for a movie about flyers.

THESE WERE just the frosting on a devil-may-care life which young men like Thad Foster adopted as their own in the 1920's.

Foster said, "We were called upon to perform all sorts of jobs then. One time, I was ordered to rush an inhalor by plane from San Antonio to Dryden, where a 16 year-old girl had drowned. They hoped to save her, but it was too late, though we made record time. I couldn't help crying then."

He added, "Those crackups I got the nickname 'cockroach' from the way I crawled away from the first one. I should say, however, that the trouble both times was the fellow in the rear cockpit. Both times, the fellow in back got his feet tangled in the controls. A broken leg was the worst either of them got, though."

Thad Foster has a large collection of pictures taken of him and his old flying buddies. All the faces are young, vigorous.

LOOK AT THIS," he said of one large group pictures, "All dead but myself and that fellow there."

One of the photos shows a biplane swooping low into the San Helena Canyon near the Rio Grande River. It was Thad Foster scouting the area on orders, but at the same time some motion picture cameras were recording his daring swoop on film, for insertion in a doubtless exciting movie about flyers!

Even going home to visit his mother proved sometimes to be a pretty exciting event for people of his hometown, Woburn, Mass., clippings indicate.

The Boston Globe on June 8, 1925, recorded it as follows:

"Churchgoers were thrilled this morning by the appearance of an airplane circling over the center of the city, the exhaust roaring and the machine flying extremely low.

"IT APPEARED time and again as though the machine would strike the spires of the churches, and many feared that it was in trouble and its operator was losing control."

The Globe concluded, "It was learned however, that the plane was driven by Lt. Thad V. Foster, a Woburn boy, now stationed at Langley Field, Virginia, in the U. S. Army Air Service. He was simply giving his friends and neighbors an unexpected call and was flying low so that he might recognize someone and be recognized himself."

Woburn was safe, however. Foster was a good flyer.

In 1930, Foster was lauded throughout the country as the safest flyer in the Air Service. He had flown three hours or more every day without an accident, that year.

HE TOTALED 1019 hours in the air and about 12,000 hours 1930, only two other men in the Air Service had more flying time than he.

Postscript: A few days after he received the 1930 award for safe flying, he fell over a chair in his home and broke four ribs.

The flying cadet had gone to Hawaii in 1921, and married Elizabeth Elliott—three years later to Langeley Field, and later to Ft. Sam Huston, where he spent eight years as control officer for South Western Airways, which was then a part of the Air Service, the clippings show.

He became interested in bombers, and flew the B-12 and B-18, pre-war models, and the wartime B-17 and B-24s. But he flew just about every plane the Air Corps had.

AFTER FIVE years as commander of the NaughtyNinth" bombardment squadron at Hamilton Field, Major Foster moved about, and finally went to the 15th Air Force in Italy. Administrative assignments were his after the war.

Col. Foster's memories of the good times of his life in the service are deepened now that he must carry on without Elizabeth, who died several weeks ago.

Happy photos of him and Elizabeth taken during the merriment of parties given by fellow officers and statesmen of countries visited are among his most treasured objects now.

Jewel Speaks On Inflation Foreign Policy

Howard H. Jewel, Democratic candidate for U. S. Representative from the Sixth Congressional District, discussed inflation and foreign policy at the March meeting of Lafayette Democratic Club.

Jewell, 34-year-old attorney and former Assistant Public Defender of Alameda County, resides in Orinda. He is the endorsed Democratic candidate to oppose Rep. John Baldwin of Martinez who seeks re-election.

Failure of the Republican Administration to develop a clear-cut foreign policy after the Dulles policy of "massive retaliation" proved to be nothing but hollow bluster has resulted in the United States losing the trust and friendship of other nations throughout the world, Jewel said.

He also decried what he called the "trickle down economic theories of the Republican Administration," stating that they have proven ineffectual in the face of increasing prices and decreasing employment.

New officers of the club were elected at the meeting at the Cecil Asman home, 980 Hawthorne Dr., Lafayette.

They include Charles Bosley, president; Ruth Cusack, vice president; Barbara Falconer, recording secretary; Joy Edgerton, corresponding secretary; Richard Alpen, treasurer.

Safety Steps For Wells are Recommended

Dr. H. L. Blum, County Health Officer, urged Contra Costa County residents who have wells to take steps to assure safe drinking water supplies after possible flooding.

He gave the following advice.

1. Inspect the well and make certain that no surface drainage can enter the system.

2. If the water appears to be muddy, pump the well by allowing a lawn hose to run for one hour. Do not let this water run into or over your septic tank and drain system. Ordinarily the water will be clear after this pumping operation.

However, if this fails to clear the water, raise the pump and wash down the casing and drop available. Add a few ounces of alum to help settle the dirt in the well.

Pump the well again by allowing the lawn hose to run for an hour.

3. When the water becomes clear, pour one quart of household bleach directly into the well. Every faucet in the household must be turned on individually until the smell of chlorine is noticed, and then shut off. Leave the bleach solution in the well overnight and pump until no odor or state of chlorine remains. This will require approximately 30 minutes of pumping.

At present the Health Department Sanitation Division is taking samples and inspecting the numerous small public water supply systems. However, because of limited facilities and personnel, the Sanitation Division is unable to take samples from a large number of private. wells. Listed in the phone directory are State approved testing laboratories that can render this service.

5. Until the well is cleared boil all drinking water.

For further information contact the Satitation Division of the County Health Department at Martinez 3000, extension 531.

Hospital Has New System of Identification

The Kaiser Foundation Hospital in Walnut Creek has introduced a positive patient identification system by attaching a slender plastic band to the wrist of each patient admitted to the hospital.

The soft, transparent band, into which an information card is inserted, indicating the patient's name, medical record number and the doctor's name, remains on the patient's wrist until removed at the time of discharge from the hosiptal.

According to William Smikahl, administrator of the local hospital, there could be four or five John Smiths in the hospital without fear of confusion.

In the case of maternity patients, there is a three-part band that is attached to the mother's wrist, as well as the baby's. The mother wears two plastic wristlets—one identifies her and the second identifies her baby. The baby's wrist band corresponds to the mother's second band.

This system of patient identification, Smikahl stated, conforms with procedures recommended by the American Hospital Association, and is receiving wide acceptance by hospitals throughout the country.

Keeping your car clean during this season of the year may be more difficult but it's worth that extra effort, points out the National Automobile Club. Let the car stay too dirty too long and you may have to renovate the finish.

Safeway Leg O' Lamb

MENU SUGGESTION
Most folks like to accentuate the mild flavor of roast leg of lamb with a bit of mint or currant jelly or sauce. Buttered peas are always right with lamb, but hot mixed vegetables make an equally delectable side dish. Potatoes . . . serve them boiled, mashed, baked or fried.

It's Time for Some Serious Thought

Public Schools Week is being celebrated throughout the United States next week.

It is doubtful if there is one organization which operates within our community that is talked about more than the school organizations.

It is questionable if there is one organization that affects more individuals and families than the school districts.

Thus, Public Schools Week gives us a chance to stop and think — which might be a refreshing change—about the status of our school system.

Time to think about what it provides.

Time to think about the manner in which it operates and in which it is operated.

Time to think about what we really get for our money.

And time to think about the goals of education and school, and what we really expect of our school systems.

There has been an obvious revolt against the increasing cost of living in the area, and one of the first groups to feel the active force of this revolt was the school system.

Tax rate limit increases have been turned down in nearly every one of our distircts. Furthermore, in some cases they have failed only to leave the school district with an obviously inadequate source of revenue.

It is time to think. What effect is this having on our educational system, and is it what we really want?

When we take action like this—mass action that states far more clearly than verbal protest that we are tired of the rising cost of living—we take action that may not be based on solid fact.

There is no question but that this type of action gets results. It cuts off funds to the school system and keeps the tax rate at the present level, or even lowers it.

But what are we really achieving, and are we hurting ourselves more than we are helping ourselves?

Let's face the facts. We live in a fairly high income area and indulge in many luxuries for ourselves and our families. But in spite of the things we have, we naturally seem to want just a little more.

We want to see more of our hard-earned dollars stay at home to provide those things that we feel we have earned. Striking at taxes is a natural place to start this battle.

But let us consider. We may not be able to afford the best education for our children—even assuming that all of us could agree on what is a "best" education.

We may have to settle, economically, for a second "best" education. But are we going to give our children a second or even third best education?

We are living in a beautiful suburban community. It is not the rural community that it was when, for example, the school bus system was installed.

You will find many residents arguing that school buses are no longer necessary, and that the children can walk to school, or find other means of transportation these days.

And, of course, this is true. School buses are expensive to operate and maintain. They do not educate a child at all. He does not learn to read, or write, or form chemical symbols from a school bus.

The money we pay for buses is not "academic" money. It does not go to education. It is extremely convenient, and makes life much easier for the parents, but it is not necessary. In this sense, it is a luxury.

Just ask the school people. They will tell you that parents, by and large, are much more interested in school buses than they are in school classes. By far the largest number of complaints that come into a school come in regarding a change in a bus schedule, or in a transportation problem.

It is time to think. Do we start cutting the bill by cutting academics, or by cutting bus transportation? Or do we sit back and think about it and decide to pay the bill and have both?

There will be much discussion and disagreement about this topic, and similar topics in the days to come. It is not at all certain that anyone knows the answers.

But there is one thing that each of us can do. We can stop and think the matter through and arrive at a logical conclusion—because we must arrive at a conclusion, either through action or inaction.

We can stop going off in all directions at once—hitting the panic button as it is phrased these days—and settle down and use our minds to think out a problem, the answer to which will affect the minds of our children.

It is Public Schools Week.

Let's sit down and do a little thinking.

The Answer Man Poses Questions on Today's Date

By PAT PENDING

Here's a couple of questions for you. Cogitate over them for a moment before I give you the answers.

1. What is the significance of this date—April 18?
2. Who was William Dawes?

ONE HUNDRED EIGHTY-THREE years ago tonight the British crossed the Charles River at Boston and the Revolutionary War began. Patriots were mad about being taxed without representation. Now, it's different! We have the representation and fifty times the taxes to pay it! And, we're still mad!

Paul Revere and William Dawes saw two lights in the tower of the Old North Church. Both men mounted their horses. Paul Revere rode north and William Dawes rode west warning the "Minute Men" that the British were coming.

What puzzles me is why Revere got all the credit and William Dawes was, apparently, forgotten. If I hadn't been scrounging around in a book, "The History of the American People" printed in 1918, I would never have known about the ride of William Dawes!

Why was Dawes forgotten? My theory is: Maybe he was riding an ancestor of Silky Sullivan and got more than fifty lengths behind!

Anyway, the book indicates that the march the British made that night was the longest on record (excepting March, 1958!). They marched overnight from Boston to Concord which, according to my calculations, is in the neighborhood of 3000 miles! Now why they wanted to march all the way to Contra Costa County when Martinez wasn't even here for laughs escapes me!

It didn't do them any good because the Concord farmers made them retreat all the way back to Boston again! Incidentally, this retreat is the longest of record exceeding even Napoleon's retreat from Moscow and Bonelli's retreat to Mexico!

MARCH, 1958, is the longest March because of the slight precipitation that occurred during it. I won't say the mild rainfall we've had was entirely harmful. A lot of my commuting friends have saved considerably on gasoline alone. They just formed a raft pool and floated to their jobs!

THE ONLY THING that I found I couldn't float during the recent rains was a loan. But, then I never liked to float alone anyway! Supposing I drowned! Who would know about it and be able to inform my better half that she was now able to collect on my G.I. Insurance?

I know that all my fellowmen are hoping now for lots and lots of sunshine. This will bring the girls out in shorts again and we can forget the menace of the sack dress!

And, if it really hsa stopped raining, we can also forget about mud until they start slinging it in earnest when the election campaigns really get going.

The San Francisco Giants will like sunny weather too. I understand that the players were beginning to worry for fear that they would have to paddle around in the dugouts they usually sit in between innings!

That's thirty for today.

Don't forget to buy up a supply of three cent stamps before they raise the postal rate!

Letters to The Editor

FLOOD RELIEF THANKS
Dear Editor

We know everyone has been so upset and busy over our recent flood damages and slides that no one has taken the time to give thanks to where it is due.

Our Orinda people are so lucky to have such a swell bunch of fellows in our local fire department. They worked day and night for days, with no extra pay, up to their knees in mud and water, even moving heavy furniture, so it could be saved.

They, too, were flooded at the fire station, but the public came first. They saved some folks hundreds of dollars by cheerfully giving a helping hand.

Another "thank you" should be given to a swell group of people headed by Merle Brown of the American Trust for starting the "Helping Hand Fund." I have lived in Orinda for 23 years, and I thing this is the nicest community spirit gesture I have ever seen.

I know these two fine groups do not expect a pat on the back, but I know, and the lucky people of Orinda know, they deserve it.

MRS. DAN D. LUCAS.

TAKE A BOW, MATTSON
Dear Editor:

Sorry to be so late this year in expressing our appreciation to you, the members of your staff and Mr. Erwin Mattson in particular for another fine job in basketball at Las Lomas.

Even though Mr. Mattson is a coach at our rival school, I felt at all times that his reporting was accurate and unbiased. It is a pleasure to have worked with him this past season, and we are looking ahead to many more years of association with Mr. Mattson and your newspaper.

Sincerely,
MERRILL CALLOW
Basketball Coach
Las Lomas High
Walnut Creek

SHOOTING

DEAR EDITOR:

Your picture concerning the shooting of an Orinda man was in very poor taste.

It has always been my impression that newspaper publishers frowned on scene of openly displayed killings except in rare cases of notorious gangster murders.

Your selection of a picture of a local resident lying on a dirty concrete floor, with blood streaming from his death wound must have made you swell with pride when you thought of the family and the many friends of the man (or did you give it a thought).

It was a great public service and very educational for the younger generation. (Fortunately I burned the whole paper before my children found it.)

Apparently the daily papers did not share your greed for bloody detail or I missed their pictorial coverage.

I think the award you won should be withdrawn in the face of such unethical practice.

R. E. Haslam.

BOMB TESTS
Dear Editor:

Jean Tozen's fine letter of last week in protest to nuclear bomb testing has stimulated me to express similar thoughts on the subject.

At the risk of sounding facetious on a subject that warrants no levity, I should say that for a year now I have been totally bewildered by the conflicting reports regarding the effects of fallout on human beings.

After reading an article on the supposed effects of Strontium 90, I would decide to exclude milk, the main source of this leukemia-inducing element, from my three children's diets and replace it by calcium pills and water. But the following week, I would run across an article by an equally eminent scientist belittling the dangers of Strontium 90. Now, of course, it would seem to be folly to increase one's intake of water since it too is teaming with radioactivity.

From where the housewife and mother broods on these horrifying problems, there appears to be no clear line of action. As much as I admire the stalwart and courageous people in a small boat off the Bikini Islands, it seems a vain gesture.

I do feel strongly that an increasing awareness and concern and even desperation on the part of more of our population may in time produce results.

Discussing the problem with others, as depressing as it is, is surely better than sitting by resignedly awaiting a political miracle or a cure for cancer.

COMFORT B. SCOTT.

ORINDA LANDSCAPING
Dear Editor:

Mr. Phair of the Orinda Store is to be commended for the landscaping that he has carried out around the Orinda Store in the Village.

The new tubs of magnolia and podocarpus have created a most attractive effect and caused much interest in the community.

Perhaps this will be the spark-plug that will activate a community landscaping project, first for the Orinda Crossroads, the "front door" of Orinda, and later, the Village business section facing the bypass.

MRS. PAUL POLLACZEK.
Chairman, Crossroads
Landscaping Committee.

THANKS
Dear Editor:

Your endorsement of my candidacy for the recent Contra Costa County Water District election was most gratifying and appreciated.

I feel your willingness to take a positive stand, clearly identified as editorial viewpoint, on so many important issues (even though I do not always agree with your stand) is journalism at its best, and I heartily commend you for it.

FRANK HANRAHAN.

P.S. The influence of your paper's endorsement was very great, as evidenced by the many "Yes, I read it in The Sun" comments received by my supporters in door-to-door campaigning. Many had clipped the article to take to the polls.

OBSCENE FILM
Dear Editor

I enclose a threatre advertisement that appeared in your paper recently.

Aside from the fact that its sensual illustrations seem out of place in your papers I thought you perhaps might be interested to know that this film (accepted by your advertising man) was condemned as obscene by a Philadelphia grand jury last month.

Managers of two theatres were indicted on charges of possessing and displaying an obscene motion picture — "And God Created Woman."

J. JOHNSON

(ED NOTE: This same advertisement has appeared in papers throughout the surrounding counties, and in fact, across the country. This film has also been shown in hundreds of movie theatres throughout the country.)

FLOOD TALK
Dear Editor

Among the post mortems of the 1958 flood in the Walnut Creek area is the controversy over the size of the new culvert —adequate versus inadequate. I would not know.

But this I do know. Las Trampas Creek well upstream from its confluence with Tice Valley Creek did go out of bounds, and Walnut Creek downstream from the Lincoln Avenue Bridge, but still south of the confluence with Springbrook Creek was more than "bank full." That I saw as I looked across the City Park to the right of the recreation center building.

The most ominous sight of my life.

ISABELLA McGEEHON

EDITORIAL POLICY
Dear Editor:

Your editorial in The Sun April 4 is timely.

As perhaps you may recall, controlled manufacturing has been advocated to a major extent by some of us for a considerable period of time.

In our own case, it is based upon a firm belief that controlled manufacturing will result in the people living in the community obtaining those public services, such as schools, etc., which they need at a lesser tax cost to the home owner.

I am happy to see that some others have a similar viewpoint.

F. M. KELLER.

The Staff Corner

Just A Trashy Story . . .

By DICK OSBORN

A subscriber phoned the other day with a specific problem, and the problem seemed so related to every resident of this community that it immediately suggested itself as a subject for this column.

The question asked by this faithful subscriber (and I know he's faithful, because he's called a couple of times before) was this:

"WHERE CAN I DUMP my trash legally in this county?"

After a few flippant remarks about a certain member of The Sun Staff, namely the Jerk of the Year, we told friend subscriber that we would research the problem for him.

The answer is simple. The Vine Hill Dump.

But that is the only part of the problem that is simple. Most people don't know where the Vine Hill Dump is, and it is not easy to find.

Furthermore, it is a long, long, long way away . . . way out in left field as the saying goes.

The man who answered the phone at the Department of Sanitation in Martinez was very helpful when asked where we could dump our trash.

His immediate reply was:

"YOU MEAN LEGALLY?"

We assured him that that was exactly what we meant, and he explained, The Vine Hill Dump is the ONLY place in this section of the county (and that's stretching things, somewhat), where you can legally dump trash.

There is a charge, depending on the amount of trash you have. The initial charge is 50 cents, and it goes on up, depending on tonnage.

The sanitation official seemed to think that a station wagon full of trash wouldn't be more than $1 or so, but said he wasn't sure, because he would have to see it, and it would depend on the man at the dump.

Many residents have objected to the charges from the garbage collectors for hauling extra trash, but we are not here to dispute this.

We can answer friend subscriber by giving him directions as to how to get to the Vine Hill Dump.

PROCEED OUT CONTRA Costa Highway past Pleasant Hill to an area between Mt. View and Vine Hill. Turn right on Arthur Road, and drive a couple of miles . . . after that, just follow your nose.

Incidentally, the dump is open every day, including Saturdays and Sundays, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., which makes it pretty convenient for most people.

It is not recommended that you dump your trash any place else, say alongside one of the highways. If you take the old "Burma Road" between Martinez and Crockett, you will think that it is all one big county dump, for sure, but this is not the case.

COUNTY AUTHORITIES frown on the indiscriminate dumping of trash throughout the county, and besides, there is a law against it.

So, if you have trash, you have two choices, legally.

Give it to your garbage collector to cart away, or drive out to the dump with it yourself.

Does that answer your question, John?

Let's Get Mad About D.A. And Clean Up the Mess

By Herman Silverman

It is time to get MAD!

Not angry—But "Mad."

Why is now the time? Because in just a few weeks you will go to the polls and decide who to elect to important public offices. May 20 is the election for school trustees (and school tax limit increases in certain areas) and June 3 is the BIG primary eletcion.

You and I scream about taxes. You and I cry out against inefficiency, dishonesty and waste in government. You and I criticize, gripe and complain all year long. But what do we do about it? Often, we do nothing. Now is the time to do something about it!

Okay . . . Let's go . . .

Obviously, we can vote. That is most important. (How many of us forget to?) The process of voting is simple. You pick up the rubber stamp and put an X here and there. The big problem is—should you vote for Smith or Jones? This decision is not easy. It takes intelligence and work to study the candidates. You can't sit down the night before election and make up your mind. You must become aware of the problem now and work at it until the election.

What can you do?

Read. Read this paper and other papers. Read campaign literature.

In addition, see the candidates in person at the various candidates' meetings planned. Watch The Sun for announcements. The Sun and A.A.U.W. are sponsoring a Candidate's Night Wednesday, May 14 at 8 p.m. in the Multi-use room of the Walnut Creek School on Walnut Boulevard in Walnut Creek. You will want to hear the five candidates for county superintendent of schools.

Circle your calendar

You won't want to miss The Sun Candidates' Night, Wednesday May 28 at the Acalanes High School Gym. Candidates for all contested races will speak, except superintendent of schools and the state elections.

Wait a minute—I'm too calm and rational. This is supposed to be a MAD column. There are many things to get mad about this coming election. Today I'm going to get good and mad (AGAIN) at the situation in the district attorney's office.

The Sun has talked about District Attorney Francis Collins for years—11 years to be exact. So I won't repeat the same story that the district attorney is costing YOU taxpayers thousands upon thousands of dollars each year, plus the fact that justice is often a comedy in the county because of Collins.

A very bleak picture

Not too much could be done about it. Collins has been in office 12 years and no one has opposed him. The political bosses of the county were and are on his side. His brother, Robert Collins, is a member of the powerful law firm of Carlson, Collins, Gordon and Bold. Anyone opposing Collins could expect trouble from the powers. Not many candidates could buck the "ins." Thousands of dollars are needed to run against an incumbent. Through all these years, no one had the courage and support to oppose Francis Collins.

Times are changing. Richmond no longer calls the political shots. Carlson, Collins and Company have lost much control and power. Thousands of YOU people have moved into the county and won't be told how to vote.

And next—the challenger

So—this year someone had the courage to run against the all-powerful Collins.

John Nejedly is this courageous man. If this sounds a bit like soap opera, so be it. But it took real guts to run against Collins. The odds are against Nejedly. It is tough to beat an incumbent. More time is needed; more money is needed; more support is needed.

"They" tried to buy him (John) by promising him certain election to Assemblyman. They did not succeed. Nejedly is not perfect. He is not a good politician. He isn't a personality kid. He is stern, formal, too intelligent, too conscientious, too thin-skinned. The Sun has been extremely critical of him at times.

Some people do not like the way John operates. Some may not like him because he has done this or that in his capacity as city attorney or attorney for the Sanitary District.

No, Nejedly is not perfect. But who is?

Now read this . . . .

Let me make this clear: this is not a left-handed endorsement of John Nejedly for district attorney. I am for him 100 per cent.

Nejedly will make a good District attorney. As a former deputy, he knows the office. He knows the law. He is a hard worker. He will clean up the office and give the county decent law enforcement. He has pledged himself to serve full time, "thus eliminating any conflict of interest between duty and private practice and effecting a tax saving by being available all of the time."

Francis Collins spends almost full time on his private practice. "Proof?" you ask.

All right, hear this. During last November and December, 1957, in his private practice, Francis Collins handled 52 civil cases including 27 divorces and 3 annulments. This does not include a large number of "probate" cases. During this same time, the following law firms handled these civil cases (not including probate cases):

Bernheim, Sugarman and Gilbert	49
Fenstermacher	40
Marcollo and Cannelora	40
Marcus and Bradbard	28
Bray, Baldwin and Ogden	57
Tinning and De Lap	47
Francis Collins (repeat)	52

These are important law firms. Certainly there are others who handled more than Collins. MOW MUCH TIME DID COLLINS SPEND ON COUNTY GOVERNMENT DURING last November and December? I'll bet he didn't appear in court ONCE for the county. Any takers? How about it, Mr. Collins?

Several weeks ago I repated a list of questions that I asked Collins last summer about the operation of his office. Last summer he didn't answer them and last week he didn't answer them.

Spacc offered to Collins

The Sun will give Francis Collins as much space as he needs and wants to answer this column or anything ever written about him at any time. We have published every campaign story he has sent.

Meanwhile, get mad about the district attorney and then talk to your friends about Nejedly. Sand a campaign contribution—$1, $5, $10, or $20. Make check out to "Campaign Committee for Nejedly." Send it to 1627 Camplin, Walnut Creek. Or, if you forget the address, send it to me and I will forward it.

Typists, envelop stuffers, phone callers are needed. Call Nejedly's office and volunteer. If you want cards, bumper strips, or pamphlets, call or stop at campaign headquarters, Las Palmas Hotel, Walnut Creek.

You can help change this bad situation. Let's defeat Collins, elect Nejedly and clean up the mess.

Park Limitations Of Resevoir Are Described

The San Pablo Dam reservoir would be suitable for a regional or county type park, but is below the standards necessary for a state park, the County Park and Recreation Council "Newsletter" said this week, quoting a report of the State Division of Beaches and Parks.

Tte Newsletter said the report indicated that the state "had no interest in the lands at the present time, that the area is below state standards for a park, that the water area was not available to the public.

Also that it provided for only day use, such as is currently available on Mt. Diablo, that there have been many vegetation disturbances to detract from the park value, and that the county is already developing a parkway which will meet many needs.

However, the County Park Commission has directed Ray Thayer of the Planning Staff to continue his study of the area for "recreation potential."

The study will include plans for use of part of the San Pablo Reservoir area for varied recreation, including camping, a swimming pool, and picnic areas.

It also includes a proposed network of parkways, connecting the Resvoir, Briones Park and surrounding communities.

Potluck Dinner Slated by Center

The annual potluck dinner and square dance honoring new members will be given at the Contra Costa Jewish Community Center, 3800 Mt. Diablo Boulevard, Lafayette, tomorrow starting at 7:30 p.m.

Norman Daneiko of Walnut Creek, center social chairman, has issued a special invitation to all center members to attend dressed in jeans and ginghams.

Cancer Group 'Thank You' Is Extended

A hearty "thank you" was extended to the public today by the American Cancer Society's Contra Costa County Branch, for the welcome given the Society's volunteers this week during their doorbell-ringing educational and fund raising campaign.

Dr. A. R. Reinke, Branch president, said that volunteers are counting results from the fund raising effort and that they should be completed next week.

"We are hopeful that friends of the Society who have not yet had an opportunity to contribute to this year's campaign will mail in contributions addressed to the American Cancer Society,, 2030 North Main,, Walnut Creek," he said.

The educaional phase of the Cancer Campaign also was highly successful, Dr. Reinke said.

"Our volunteers, who have taken part in previous campaigns reported a growing understanding of the cancer facts among the people with whom they talked," he said.

College Forms Information Committee

The student body of East Contra Costa Junior College announced that for the first time in the school's history an information service will be established to serve the surrounding communities. This service will consist of a bi-weekly issue of current events announced by the various organizations and services in the area.

Local organizations sponsoring events or programs that would be of interest or educational value to the students of the college are invited to submit announcements of these events no later than two weeks prior to the scheduled activity.

The announcements should be submitted in writing and addressed to Inter-Club Council, East Contra Costa Junior College, Concord, Calif.

In submitting announcements it is requested that the organization state the date, time, location, and admission price of the event. The sponsoring organization and the purpose for which the particular event is being held should also be included.

MOST IMPORTANT in the lives of members of the Contra Costa Music Club is beautiful music and the instruments by which it is achieved. They met recently at the City Music House and School in Walnut Creek. Left to right are Hyman Collins, Joe Bauer, Alice Patchin, James MacKenzie, Barbara Jessup, secretary, and Robert Armour, president.

New Patterns in Church Schools To Be Explored

Workshops on major problems of church school administration will be conducted by Mrs. Muriel James, minister of education for the Orinda Community Church on Monday night and April 28 in the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church.

The clock sessions will emphasize new perspectives, suggested solutions for recruiting and training teachers, modernized organizational patterns, budget, audiovisual aids, records, supervision and evaluation.

For the first 20 minutes of each meeting, three projectors, operating simultaneously, will run off previews of current film strips available for church school teacher and administrator-training programs. Workshop panels will follow.

Advance registration is being made through individual churches in eight principal areas —Alamo, Concord, Danville, Lafayette, Martinez, Orinda, Pleasant Hill, and Walnut Creek.

The program is one of four the Board of Christian Education of the Central Contra Costa County Council of Churches will sponsor in 1958. Others will be concerned with Sunday school teacher and administrator problems and youth leadership.

Teacher Recruitment Meet is Tomorrow

A teacher recruitment conference, believed to be the first in California with community-wide representation, will be held tomorrow, at East Contra Costa Junior College.

Nearly 1000 invitations are being issued—at least half of them to non-school persons — by the sponsoring Contra Costa Teacher Recruitment Committee and the 32nd District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, according to the district's president, Mrs. Robley Berry of Kensington.

Dr. Lloyd D. Bernard of Orinda, manager of the University of California's Bureau of School and College Placement, will deliver the keynote address at 9:30 a.m. on "The History and Purposes of Free Public Education in the United States."

Dr. Bernard has been a teacher and principal in the Bay Area and dean at Chico State College. As bureau manager, he is in charge of teacher placement at the four U.C. campuses, at Berkeley, Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Davis.

Dr. Bernard's address will include discussion of the current need for education of all children and the qualities to be desired in those who teach, as a preliminary to the two questions to be discussed by approximately 20 sections which will meet afterward, from 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The questions are: What qualities do we need in school personnel if we are to meet the educational needs of today's children and youth? What techniques can we use, as community leaders to attract people with these qualities?

Mrs. Eloise Honett will summarize the conference findings in the concluding period from 12:30 to 1:15 p.m. Mrs. Honett is vice principal and dean of girls of Pacifica High School, West Pittsburg, and is active on behalf of teacher recruitment in Northern California.

Students Aid Blood Drive

St. Mary's College students donated more than 100 pints of blood to aid victims of hemophilia, according to the Northern California Chapter of the National Hemophilia Foundation.

The donations were made at a mobile unit from the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association Blood Bank, which was taken to the college campus for a one-day drive recently.

Mrs. Ray E. Carey, president of the hemophilia chapter, said that the hemophiliac's need for blood is constant and unpredictable. Purpose of the foundation, she said, is to provide this blood, free of charge, to members.

Blood donor appointments may be made at the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association Blood Bank, 6230 Claremont Avenue, Oakland.

The other run came in the seventh when Bob Rodrigues was safe on an error, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, and came home when the ball was thrown to second to try to catch Ray Schneider who had singled and was stealing.

Kritscher went the distance for Acalanes with Bojarsky receiving.

Battery for Antioch was Kent, Routt 2, Reglia 6, and Rodrigues. The losers had two errors and Acalanes had one.

The show will be held at the association's newly completed arena located at 1084 Bollinger Canyon Road, Moraga.

There's Nothing Like It To Drag Out Local Sports

By ERWIN MATTSON

The good weather has really had an effect on athletics—marks in track have picked up and they have been smashing prep records in weekly competition.

☆ ☆ ☆

ACALANES LOOKED to be a good favorite in the county meet which is not to far off (May) but with contestants on the upgrade all the way around it looks as if it will be closer than the paper on the wall and it will depend on how other schools cut in.

Incidentally county marks and times compare favorably with any other league in the Bay Area—as population grows out here, the records shift more and more in this direction.

Better than average facilities in general, plus a warmer climate all contribute to good performance.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

WORD FROM THE Land of Florida indicates that Richard "Red" Jones, former Acalanes and East Contra Costa Junior College standout, is doing OK as is Dick Egan, pitcher by way of Pleasant Hill and the Jaycee.

Jones at one point had 10 for 14 at the plate. Last Saturday, he rapped a triple with the bases loaded and had a good day afield.

Egan has worked well on the mound and shows promise with his port side slants.

One of the big problems for both is a yearning for home—known as homesickness. It's a long way and a lot of strange faces—some of them trying to nab your job.

Neither has been assigned as yet—as soon as they are we will run their addresses so their local friends can drop them a line.

☆ ☆ ☆

SEE WHERE GEORGE Harrison, ex Don swimmer, has had a sensational swimming year at Stanford and recently copped a first in the national meet.

He made the Olympics as a prep and looks to be ready to repeat in the next one.

☆ ☆ ☆

Jim Small, another ex Don, is a standout swimmer for the University of California in fact he was the only one sent to the east for the nationals.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

Ray Williamson was picked as a standout in the spot put at Stanford where he has lettered two years, but he accidently shot himself in the leg with an "unloaded" rifle.

He is on the mend now — hear he is hoping he retains his form and realizes his potential soon.

☆ ☆ ☆ ☆

LOOK FOR THE name of Webb Johnson to appear soon from up Oregon way. He was a standout frosh and is a good choice as a varsity standout.

Football isn't far off—spring practice begins in colleges this coming week and while big league ball has shoved everything else in the background the pigskin game will be getting more and more play.

I RECENTLY MADE a trip to Arizona to see the big leagues in action and wrote of some of the tales and legends of the country.

If you want to get an interesting group of stories, talk to Charles Toll, head man of the Moraga School.

He accompanied me on the trip along with his son, Denny. They resided in the colorful Arizona country and really know the wide open spaces.

Wonder if the Moraga Lions Club of which he is a member has ever used him as a speaker on "Tales of Arizona."

If they haven't and do—I for one am going to be a visitor.

Open House at Jr. College To Feature 'Participation'

Open House at East Contra Costa Junior College will be held Sunday. A new pattern of public participation will be followed, College Director Karl O. Drexel announced today.

The event from 2 to 4:40 p.m., will incorporate ten activities varying from guided tours of exhibits and laboratories to live drama and music, and physical education-in-action. There will also be six panel sessions on significant aspects of education.

Open House there will be "Horizons in Education."

DREXEL SAID that arriving guests will be handed detailed programs from which they may select the events they find particularly interesting. Over-crowding will be avoided, he said, by repeating the drama-music physical education events twice during the afternoon.

Guests will be welcomed as participants in the six panel sessions which are to be conducted simultaneously in various campus areas between 3 and 3:30 p.m. Each panel will have a moderator, selected from the college staff, with the exception of the single all-student managed session which will be a simulated Associated Student Council in action.

Students will assist the staff as official hosts and act as visitors' guides.

Refreshments will be served in the West Room, Student Activities Building, by the ECCJC Women's Club

UNDER THE direction of Allen Scholl, students will present a musical program in the Student Activities Building Diablo Room.

Mrs. Bess Whitcomb will direct a half-hour dramatic skit in Building 12.

An exhibition of physical education programs, arranged by Athletic Director Hugo Boschetti, will be held in the gymnasium.

In more academic areas including laboratories, there will be exhibits on display. Instructors and students will be at hand to answer questions.

Open House 1958 will be the eighth in the college's history. Tradiationally, it attracts hundreds of returning alumni, prospective students and their families, and the general public, a large percentage of whom have attended night programs as part-time students.

Agricultural Production Is Down in 1957

Agricultural production decreased by $4,501,425 last year, the 1957 report of the County Department of Agriculture indicates.

The crops showing the major decreases during this year were: Almonds showed a decrease of $1,533,625 and this was due to a drop in production and values.

Cattle values were down by $950,000. Actually the average cattle production and values were about the same as last year. The difference is mainly due to a more reliable estimate now being made.

Apricots were down $458,790; peaches, $83,527; tomatoes, $1,113,164. All apricot, peach, and tomato values were down and there was a drop in the tomato acreage.

Poultry values were off by $104,740 and this was mainly because fewer fryers were produced.

Some of the more important increases in crop values were: Asparagus, up $355,051. And this increase was due to additional acreage in production.

Walnut values were up $230,024 and this was due to increased tonnage. Sheep values were up $202,061 because of higher production.

All values are gross receipts received by the producer at roadside or the first point of delivery and do not include the cost production.

The data used in the report was gathered by the staff members and assembled by Mr. K. E. Danielson, deputy agricultural commissioner.
